FOUR KILLED AND 100 ARE INJURED

As Result of a Wreck on New Haven Road.

AT ANDREWS SQUARE IN SOUTH BOSTON

Cars Catch Fire Following the Disaster.

The Engine and Two of the Three Coaches Leave the Track and Plunge into a Mud Bank—Engineer and Firemen Are Caught Under the Locomotive and Instantly Killed.

Boston, Aug. 8.—Four men were killed several persons fatally injured and a hundred passengers hurt, at 11:17 today, when the locomotive and two passenger coaches of a Cohasset train left the New Haven railroad tracks near the Crescent Avenue station in South Boston and plunged down a ten-foot embankment into a swamp. According to railroad men who started an investigation the train was traveling forty miles an hour. The train left the tracks on a long curve.

The Dead.
William Terrill, forty-eight, married, engineer.
Frank Campbell, thirty-two, married.
Unidentified man, a passenger.
Michael Daley.

Most of the injured were women shoppers on the way to Boston from South Shore towns.

Two Killed, Many Injured.
Boston, Aug. 8.—Two persons were killed and 100 injured in a wreck on the New Haven railroad at Andrews square, South Boston today.

The dead and injured were brought into the South station.

The second coach from the locomotive caught fire, after the wreck, and the fire department was hurried from Andrews square. It was feared several of the passengers might be burned in the wreck.

There were three coaches to the train. One woman passenger was hurled through the window of the first coach. She was injured about the arms and suffered from shock. The train left the tracks near the Crescent Avenue station in South Boston and hurtled itself into a mud-bank.

The dead are Engineer Terrill, of South Braintree, and Fireman Campbell, of Cohasset.

Two of the passenger coaches left the track and overturned, one of them catching fire. The train was unbound from Cohasset and Braintree by way of West Quincy, and was an express train from Atlantic.

Most of the passengers were women. Scores of autos and ambulances took care of the injured. Two special trains were run into the South station where ambulances took the injured to the various hospitals.

The engineer and fireman of the train were instantly killed, being caught under the locomotive as it buried its nose in the mud.

On the train were 200 or more passengers.

Wreck in Chicago.

Chicago, Aug. 8.—One man was probably fatally hurt and scores were shaken up and bruised when two trains on the Elevated railroad crashed into each other on the loop during the rush morning hours today. Both were going in the same direction. The front train stopped abruptly and the following train collided with it.

Guards had trouble in preventing the frightened passengers leaving the train and making their way to the nearest station.

LAKE STEAMER IS SENT TO THE BOTTOM

Passengers and Crew Are Saved When Vessel Sinks.

Marquette, Mich., Aug. 8.—The steamers, James Gayley and Rennselaer, collided forty-three miles east of Manitou island early today.

The Gayley sank and the Rennselaer came into port with four feet of water in her forward compartment.

Passengers and crew of the Gayley were taken off by the Rennselaer. Damage estimated by owners at $300,000.

TROOPS READY FOR MARCHING ORDERS IN THE GREAT WAR GAME

TO BE CARRIED ON IN NEW YORK AND THE NEW ENGLAND STATES

This photograph of regular army troops, with guns stacked and other accoutrements ready, and waiting for an order in the great army maneuvers, when a "foreign" army, composed of regular army men and members of state militias, will proceed through New England with New York as the objective point. It will be met in Connecticut by the "Army of Defense," whose intention it is to repel the invaders and either take them prisoners or drive them into the sea.

HUNDREDS OF MEN ENTOMBED

Terrific Explosion Occurs in a German Mine.

THE LOSS OF LIFE IS NOT YET ASCERTAINED

But It Is Feared Many Have Suffered Death.

Terrible Blast Catches 650 Miners at Work in Lothringer Colliery, at Gerthe, Burying All of Men—The Length of Workings May Have Saved Some—The Rescue Parties Bring Out 131 Men.

Berlin, Aug. 8.—A firedamp explosion, which cost heavily in human life, occurred in a colliery near Gerthe today while 650 miners were at work in the mine. Up to late this afternoon, 131 miners had been accounted for. Of this number twenty-eight were dead, and all the others injured. Of the injured fifteen were mortally hurt. Fears were expressed that the death list would go into the hundreds.

Gerthe is near Dusseldorf.

Explosion Catches Miners.

Berlin, Aug. 8.—A terrific explosion occurred today in the Lothringer colliery, at Gerthe, while 650 men were at work. Rescue parties were able to enter the mine within a short time, and began exploring the extent of the loss of life. Eight injured miners had been brought to the surface within several hours, but at that time the fate of the other miners was unknown.

Because of the great force of the explosion, it was feared that none escaped unscathed. The only hope lay in the fact that the workings of the mine were of great length, which offered the possibility that the men in the inside shafts escaped.

The disaster occasioned wild excitement in the community about the mine.

By mid-afternoon, 105 miners had been accounted for. Three of them were dead, and all the remainder were injured. Fifteen will die.

Thousand Men on Strike.
Port Arthur, Ont., Aug. 8.—A thousand men employed by the Canadian Pacific railroad and the Canadian Northern railway are on strike today at Port Arthur and Fort William. The strikers are freight-handlers. The men demand a wage increase of five cents an hour and refused a compromise of 2 1/2 cents.

Eagles Have a Busy Time.
Cleveland, Aug. 8.—With election of officers and the annual parade the Eagles had a busy time today. The ballots for Grand officers were to be cast this afternoon. The big parade started at 10 a. m. Ritual exhibitions at the Eagles' club-house continued all day.

AND THEY CALL THIS HAVING A GOOD TIME

Mill Village, Pa., Aug. 8.—Doctor Evan O. Burgess and his bride of a few hours, Miss Olive Geist, were tied to a tree last night, while their friends did Indian war dances around them till the light in East heralded the dawn.

1,000 POUNDS OF FISH FROM A MAGIC LAKE

Hopkinsville, Ky., Aug. 8.—At least 1,000 pounds of fish were caught yesterday in a big lake that formed near Newstead during the rainy season in May and from which the waters have unexplainably disappeared.

The fish were caught in baskets, sacks used as dragnets, with bare hands and in other ways. The fish ranged in size from minnows to thirty-pounders.

The pond formed about the time of the Mississippi overflow, and, judging from the fish caught, they came from that stream or Reelfoot lake, through underground channels, as the water which formed the lake first appeared bubbling up through a sink hole. It disappeared through the same place.

Detective Burns Runs Another and Also a Saloon.

Joints Are Run To Clamp Down the Hooks on the Police Officials Who Have Been Playing In with the Gamblers—It Is Claimed That They Have Secured Lead Pipe Cliches Against Officers.

New York, Aug. 8.—When the grand jury went into session today it was with the intention of devoting its attention to witnesses, who are expected to establish the relations alleged to exist between Police Lieutenant Charles A. Becker and "Bald Jack" Rose prior to the murder of Herman Rosenthal, the gambler, with whose death Becker is charged.

It was the plan of District Attorney Whitman to begin today to establish the truth of charges made in Rose's expose of the alliance existing between certain members of the police and the underworld by which police officials and politicians grew rich through graft.

Detectives from the district attorney's office had served summons on a number of persons mentioned by Rose in his statement, and they were instructed to appear before the grand jury.

With Mr. Whitman directing the situation, aided by two assistants and a corps of detectives, evidence is piling up rapidly.

The district attorney is said to have found a reliable witness who is willing to testify that Jacob A. Reich, better known as Jack Sullivan, the friend of Lieutenant Becker, the man who rode uptown with him on the morning of the Rosenthal murder, fled with the assassins in Libby and Shapiro's automobile.

Expected To Indict Sullivan.
The district attorney expects the grand jury to indict Sullivan for murder in the first degree.

REVOLT DOWN IN SANTO DOMINGO

Dajabon Is Captured by the Dominican Rebels,

AFTER A BATTLE OF FOURTEEN HOURS

In Which Rebels Lose Three Hundred Men.

Dajabon Is on the Frontier Between Hayti and Santo Domingo, and It Is Feared That the Rebels Will Precipitate Open War Between Hayti and Santo Domingo, Long Threatened.

Washington, Aug. 8.—Alarming reports of revolts in Santo Domingo were reported by the state department.

Minister Furness at Port-au-Prince reported that Dajabon, on the frontier between Hayti and Santo Domingo, had been captured by the rebels after a battle lasting fourteen hours. The rebels are said to have lost 300 men before taking the town.

Dajabon is considered a point of vantage for the invasion of either Hayti or Santo Domingo.

It is feared here that this action may precipitate open war between Hayti and Santo Domingo, which has been threatening for the past two weeks.

The Santo Domingo government alleged the rebels were aided by the Haytiens and it is thought the Haytien government is behind the movement.

The Nicaraguan Revolution.

Washington, Aug. 8.—With the reports of Nicaraguan rebels having seized the section of the railroad near Leon and are threatening to advance on Managua, state department officials here today were much concerned for the safety of Americans in the republic.

The United States forces in Nicaragua at present number only 100, the bluejackets landed by the scout cruiser, Annapolis. The gunboat, Tacoma, is at Bluefields prepared to land 150 sailors and to arm them with rapid-fire guns and small field cannon. In addition, the collier, Justin, will sail from Panama tomorrow with 350 marines. The rebels, however, are safely ensconced in the rebel part of the republic, and it would be difficult for the American troops to reach them without making an extended campaign through the canebrakes and swamp lands of the interior. Such a course would antagonize the natives, and, as in the case of Mexico, the United States is confronted by the question of making a "bluff" on the border or invading the country and facing a possible concerted resistance.

Railroad and telegraph communications have been cut off.

DIES BEFORE HE CAN EAT HIS BREAKFAST

Chicago, Aug. 8.—"If you can't eat, pay up," said a waiter in a restaurant early today, after a customer had been sitting for some minutes at a table without touching the food that had been placed before him. There was no answer. The waiter shook the customer. Then he uttered a startled cry. The man was dead. Police are trying to identify him.

AN ARMY MOVES UPON NEW YORK

The Great War Game Is About To Open.

ANNUAL MANEUVERS OF NATIONAL GUARD

Are To Be Directed by General T. H. Bliss.

Two Armies, the Reds and the Blues, To Engage in Mimic Warfare.

The Former To Attack Metropolis, While the Latter Defends It—All Conditions of Actual Warfare Are To Be Simulated.

New York, Aug. 8.—Under the expert direction of the flower of the general staff of the United States army, nearly 20,000 troops today began to demonstrate the possibilities of an army descending upon New York, with its millions upon millions of treasure, its art, wealth and more spoils of war than any commander in history ever dreamed would exist. Two opposing armies, the Red and the Blue, will take part in the tactical problem in which the main question is:

"Are the great vaults and treasure palaces of New York, its great shipping key and its use as a base of operations, safe from a foreign foe?"

And it is not fanciful, by any means. Up in Central Park, perched high on the rocks of the northwest corner, stands a little stone house. It is one of a chain erected by the citizens of New York, something like 100 years ago, to meet an actual foreign foe. Children from the neighboring flats now play about the old house and their elders pass it with no thought that it is a danger signal hung, by past experience, for the guidance of the future.

But it is by far the most important consideration of the war game, because it shows the importance of the practice against such a contingency as once faced New York—and may face it again.

The Troops Move.

The actual movement of the troops begins today, when national guard regiments from the New England states start to take positions along the Housatonic river in eastern Connecticut.

The actual fighting begins Saturday. The official title of the games being played is the Connecticut Maneuver campaign. Its chief point is Bridgeport and General Tasker H. Bliss, commanding the department of the East, is the directing spirit of the play. The game has two periods. The

REVISION OF PATENT LAWS

Is Proposed in Bill Introduced in the House

BY CHAIRMAN OF PATENT COMMITTEE

Three Important Changes Are Recommended.

Regulation of Prices at Which Patented Articles May Be Sold—Patent Owners Barred from Speculating Unpatented Articles with Patents—Creation of Right To Issue Compulsory Licenses.

Washington, Aug. 7.—Changes in existing patent laws, to prevent monopolies in patents, are proposed in a bill introduced in the house today by Representative Oldfield, chairman of the committee on patents. The bill, which was accompanied by a report of the committee, proposes three important changes in existing laws, which the report states are aimed at the Standard Oil, Tobacco and Shoe Machinery trusts. The three most important changes are:

Regulation of prices at which patented articles shall be sold, with respect to cost of production.

Nullification of existing provisions that the owner of a patent may specify unpatented articles, to be used in connection with his patent.

Creation of the right to issue "compulsory licenses," and thereby prevent the suppression of patents in the interest of a combination in restraint of trade.

While expressing its belief that the remedies urged in the present bill will tend to prevent the "shoving" of patents and the suppression of inventions in the interest of great combinations, the committee expresses the belief further changes are necessary before the patent laws will fit the needs of commerce.

Present Method Bad.
The present methods of trying patent cases is found by the committee to be "wasteful and procrastinating." It is now possible, the report asserts, for the representative of a monopoly to delay indefinitely the decision of his case. The committee urges the present rule, by which the plaintiff must show a trust to be an illegal combination and be done away with should the combine previously have been found guilty of operating in restraint of trade.

The methods of taking examination in courts of equity is condemned. It is urged the selection of an examiner to take evidence with no ordinary rules at to cross-examination is useless.

The committee concludes with the opinion that the delay now permitted in the patent office should be removed.

TICKET IS NAMED BY ACCLAMATION

Roosevelt and Johnson Will Lead Progressive Fight.

CHICAGO CONVENTION ENDS IN A TUMULT

Colonel and His Running-Mate Both Well Pleased.

Candidates Named by Latest National Political Convention Congratulate Each Other—Acceptable Platform Drafted After Hours of Labor—Favors Downward Revision of Tariff.

Coliseum, Chicago, Aug. 8.—Amid scenes of the greatest confusion the Progressive party nominated Former President Theodore Roosevelt for president and Governor Hiram W. Johnson of California for vice president. Both nominations were made by acclamation. The word "National" was dropped from the party name.

The convention had been in session since 10 a. m. The delay in making the nominations was caused by exhaustive discussions over the platform in the committee on resolutions.

Colonel Roosevelt was put in nomination by Comptroller William A. Prendergast of New York, and the nomination had been seconded by Judge Ben Lindsey of Colorado, Miss Jane Addams of Chicago, Alexander T. Hamilton of Georgia, General Horatio C. King of New York, Colonel T. F. Lloyd of Florida, General John H. McDowell of Tennessee, Henry J. Allen of Kansas, ex-Governor Garvin of Rhode Island, John J. Sullivan of Ohio and Robert S. Fisher of Arizona.

Governor Johnson had been put in nomination by Judge John M. Parker of New Orleans, and the nomination had been seconded by C. S. Wheeler of California, James R. Garfield of Ohio, Bainbridge Colby of New York, Frederick Landis of Indiana, Raymond Robin of Illinois, Gifford Pinchot of Pennsylvania, Governor Vose of South Dakota, William Flinn of Pennsylvania and John R. Cledo, a negro, of New York.

Accept With Thanks.

Colonel Roosevelt, arm in arm with Governor Johnson, appeared before the convention and was greeted with wildest plaudits, a very bedlam of a demonstration, and formally accepted the nominations. The great audience of 15,000 souls sang the Doxology to the accompaniment of a band, the five and drum corps, a quartet of trombones and cornets, with the minute gun machine barking away up in the organ loft, and with the benediction the convention adjourned.

At that moment a great banner was dropped from the girders on the roof of the Coliseum with this legend: "Roosevelt and Johnson. New York, and California. Hands across the continent. For there is neither east nor west; border nor breed; nor birth, when two strong men stand face to face, though they come from the ends of the earth."

From the very first moment to the last this convention has had the appearance of a great religious revival. Senator Dixon and others remarked at the close of the scene: "This is not politics; this is religion."

Temporary Chairman Beveridge, in calling the convention to order, announced that Rabbi G. S. Levi of the Temple Israel of Chicago would say the invocation.

Medill McCormick of Illinois got a rousing welcome when, as chairman of the committee on rules, he reported the recommendations of that committee to the effect that the new party would be known as the "Progressive" party. The new party has made no provision for delegates from the Philippines or Porto Rico, nor will they have representation on the national committee. Alaska, Hawaii and Washington, D. C., are admitted to the national committee, but the members are not permitted to vote. They are each permitted one delegate in the convention with a vote each.

It was now well on toward noon and there was no indication that the committee on resolutions was ready to report. The committee had been in continuous session for nearly 60 hours. Colonel Roosevelt had desired as short a platform as possible. The committee had received so many planks that they were working like day laborers to chip them down to reasonable dimensions.

Adjourned Over Noon Hour.

Because the resolutions committee was so slow in completing its labors the convention adjourned until 1 o'clock. After the recess Mr. Allen of Kansas moved that the convention proceed to nominate candidates for president and vice president.

In due time, when the second speeches were over, William D. Lewis, dean of the law school of the University of Pennsylvania, chairman of the committee on resolutions, read the platform. This document differs widely, most drastically, from the platforms of the Republican and Democratic national parties. Especially

LET GARFIELD LEAD

OHIO BULL MOOSERS.

There is only one man exactly suited to lead the third party ticket demanded in Ohio, by the chief Bull Moose. Recall that former Ohio Republicans have not been asking for a third ticket, but the great I Am, the colossal dictator who stands for a people's rule so long as he may utter the ukase, insists upon it. Recall that the divinely inspired Roosevelt, having had more than any other American citizen at the hands of the Republican party, now seeks its disruption, because he could neither browbeat or cheat it for a third nomination. Recall that the chief servants in the game of disruption are former beneficiaries of Republican favor, in whom gratitude is lost in greed for holding office. Recall that the Bull Moose movement is aimed solely at a great Republican who made party pledges his first duty and established an era of accomplishment and law enforcement. Recall that a true Bull Moose must be a blind worshipper of the imperious I Am and be a mere figure in the game of solitaire for the amusement of Theodore, the Great. Recall all these, and more of like import, and the leader for Ohio, the logical, harmonious, fitting leader is James R. Garfield.

He bears an illustrious name, bestowed by a father whom the Republican party made illustrious. James R. himself has held Republican office nearly all the years of his majority, in state or federal service, and distinguished himself in none. But he held office, and held to the party ranks, and neither agitated nor complained, nor accomplished nor reformed, until President Taft declined to keep him in his cabinet where an able man was needed. He has the two great requisites—a hateful lack of gratitude and a consuming love for office. But these are not all. James can shift to every whimsical political wind, like a perfect political weather vane. He can assail a trust with the proclamation of his chief Bull Moose, and afterwards certify its righteousness with the assurance of a Beveridge. He can utter a pronouncement in one breath, and execute a great flunk before a minute has elapsed. He can declare for a reformation and look sincere, and sacrifice the reformation for a closer approach to office and its rewards. But why write on? It is an inspiring name, he is an inspiring leader. He will stir men's breasts with his example of gratitude, his emulation of the square deal and his eagerness for office. Let him lead. Let him be the nominee. Let him make the appeal to the conscience and the devotion and loyalty and convictions of the Republicans of Ohio.

"The cost of living is simply awful," observed the restaurant philosopher at luncheon today. "Just look what we have to pay for auto tires."

It may be noted that the gifted citizen of Oyster Bay did not promulgate his "Thou shalt not steal" doctrine till the despoliation of the Bryan clothesline was practically complete.

Talking about recalls, we would like to see the recall law framed that could be guaranteed to recall a good-looking woman official, unless, of course, the women had an overwhelming majority.

New York City had a murder a day during the month of July and fifty-two persons killed by vehicles. Still it is no more than fair to bear in mind that the population of New York is as great as that of the entire state of Ohio. Possibly our record would be as bad, were it tabulated.

If we get the drift of the colonel's expressed view, both Mr. Taft and Mr. Wilson are making the mistakes of their lives by not inserting a few lines in the "Situations Wanted" columns.

Of course, having nominated himself and accepted the nomination, the only thing left for Colonel Roosevelt to do today was to congratulate the convention on the exceeding wisdom of its choice.

Our idea of the square deal would be to limit the hours of labor of the wife to the hours of labor performed daily by her husband.

"This is not politics; this is religion." Such was the estimate of Senator Dixon of his "Bull Moose" convention at Chicago. He ought to say it is fanaticism. It would have been nearer the truth. There is such a thing as religious fanaticism or fanatical religion. The Chicago meeting was the worship of the "Great T. R." It was the first formal effort to substitute an empire for the republic, by the cheekiest lot of pretenses ever made by a political party. Dixon is right. The Chicago convention was not politics; it was fanaticism and flim-flam.

We note, from the reports of the "Bull Moose" convention, that Judge Ben Lindsey is a "sterling Democrat." This is the same Lindsey that posed as a "sterling Republican" when he tried to run the Republican national convention last month. Time is forcing, even upon unwilling minds, the demonstration of the fact that the Roosevelt candidacy before the Republican national convention was largely a combination of fake and bluff.

There can be no question of the right of Mr. Roosevelt or any other man, to run for the presidency. But his present candidacy demonstrates that there was ground for objection to him running under false pretenses—posing as a Republican.

We are waiting for some paragrapher of humorous trend to call attention to the men, notable in public life, who were delegates to the "Progressive" convention.

One might naturally conclude that the conventions are over and that we may now settle down to the ordinary trend of events, but there's no telling. Nobody can say when somebody else with ambition and a grudge will be trying to break into the political game.

The sapient paragrapher of the Ohio State Journal points out that the colonel probably will square things up with the colored men and brethren by assuring them that the slaves were freed with his full approval and consent. Pshaw! The colonel freed 'em. Ask him. He will admit it.

Business appears to have taken a notion, this year, to show politics that it isn't the only hot proposition on the beach.

Governor Wilson says he proposes to go through the campaign without resorting to personalities. That's enough to cause the "Bull Moose" to put the governor down in his card index as a mollycoddle.

Candidate Miles McLaughlin has gone over to the bolters' camp. Still, it's hardly probable that his step will seriously affect his chances of carrying this congressional district.

There's no question but what the delegates to the "Bull Moose" convention constituted the largest and best-drilled crowd of rooters ever assembled under a roof.

It was a rare privilege that came to Comptroller Prendergast to prepare a nominating speech for one national convention, and be able to deliver it in another, six weeks later. It couldn't be done for any American but the great T. R. He was a Republican candidate before a Republican convention, but, failing there, he held a convention of his own. It is some tribute to the man that he could do this, but the irrepressible Ted is a rare personality and a "heap" politician, and clinging to his coat tails are a great many outs who overlasting want in. It all furnished stuff for the papers, and a theme for the politicians, but it will cut no great figure with the American people. The same offerings are to be found in the Socialist platform, and the Socialists have the advantage of being wholly in earnest about it.

It is evident that the "Progressives" overlooked that Sharp in Mr. Williams' name.

The price of shoes, it is said, is to go up twenty per cent. in September, but that can't throw a scare into us with the discount sales still on. And we recall the tariff was reduced on shoes, and removed from hides.

Naturally, Colonel Roosevelt would take offense at that pastor's call for a Joshua. Why, Joshua didn't pretend to regulate more than the sun and moon!

If we have our biblical history right, Moses was the fellow who had to be satisfied with merely a look at the "Promised Land."

It was hardly a square deal for the "Bull Moosers" to end their gathering without one measly little laudatory reference, even, to George W. Perkins' yawning bar!

There is a sunny side even to the prediction of the New York City physician, who says everybody will be crazy in 300 years. That would put the criminal trial alienist, who testifies for what there is in it, out of business.

Talk about the steam roller—how do you like the way that committee on resolutions was flattened out yesterday up in Chicago?

FIFTY ARE INJURED IN AN EXPLOSION

Dynamite Lets Go During Firing Practice in France.

Paris, Aug. 8.—Fifty men of the Twenty-second regiment of dragons were wounded in a dynamite explosion, during firing practice at Rheims yesterday. It became known today.

Fifteen of the injured will probably die. The military authorities endeavored to prevent news of the accident from leaking out, and even when it was admitted, efforts to minimize its tragic effects were made.

THE BULL MOOSE PARTY AND ITS GREAT BULL MOOSE.

It is done. And it was done according to the plans and specifications of the one man who inspired it, who dominated and who profited thereby. The Progressive party comes from T. R. It is no more and no less. It will have no important and no abiding place in the activities of American politics, but it has afforded T. R. a spectacle and tickled his abnormal vanity and appeared his lunger for applause. Doubtless it will endure for a more or less spectacular campaign, for the offended interests and "outraged" Wall street will supply the funds for a peepul's crusade, and T. R. and Johnson will lead the whirlwind of appeal to passion and prejudice, and hate and distrust. But we can not believe it will show any formidable strength at the polls. We still believe the great majority of American people have the capacity to think. We believe sincerely in the safety of intelligent public opinion. We believe the American millions have the capacity to come to appreciation of what we have, and weigh the proposals of political platforms, test the merit of every utterance, and take the measure of the men who are named for the presidency. The menacing Roosevelt ambition, the glaring Roosevelt hypocrisy, and the offending Roosevelt violation of all rules of gratitude and political honor and the sacrificing of friendship for personal gain, are all too apparent to escape their due consideration at the hands of a people who believe in honesty and the square deal. Republicans will not support him, because every promise that is in touch with Republican progress, every proposal of sanity and sincerity, is written in the Republican platform, and President Taft is already proven to be an executive who is consecrated to the fulfillment of party pledges. Republicans will not support him because he has turned to disrupt a party that honored him as it has rarely honored any American citizen. Every Republican who is not blinded by hero worship of this Caesar feeding on ambition, knows that Roosevelt was fairly defeated in a convention he attempted to steal, thwarted by the strong men of the party, who could not be browbeaten by his brazen methods, and because of his defeat he is now seeking to destroy the party to which he could not dictate.

Democrats will not support him, because all that he offers in sincerity, save destruction of the tariff, is offered in the Baltimore platform, and Governor Wilson is not menacing the republic. And Socialists will not support him, because the Socialist changes he proposes are the ideals of Socialists who advocate them sincerely, rather than as a bait for the acquirement of office. It is needless to discuss the Roosevelt platform. It is a hodge-podge of hypocrisy, with every proposal of sincerity to appeal to restlessness and popular prejudice. It neglected the regulation of flying machines, as Adam Bede drolly suggested, and omitted to rewrite all the ten commandments, but it is the prize fake of political preposterousness. A Roosevelt could utter it safely, because a platform to him is only a campaign contrivance. His entire policy is one of proclaiming, performance is not expected. One illustration is ample. He speaks decisively about the tariff, now, but in two terms of office his official utterance on the tariff is nowhere to be found. He is the prize pretender of the period.

The new party and its idol will have some votes. The hopeless radicals, the hungry has-beens, the dreamers, the office-seekers who know they are out of touch with the party that heretofore favored them, the offending trust managers whom the president has proscribed, these will be back of the Progressive party movement. And they will enlist the purchasable with funds supplied by the interests. In this campaign for idealism in American politics. It is a great spectacle. But it can't fool the American people through all the reflections and discussions of a three-months' campaign.

TWO AMERICANS HAVE BEEN ADDED TO LIST

Friends of Boyd Brothers Believe Them Murdered by Mexicans.

Douglas, Ariz., Aug. 8.—That two Americans have been added to the list of foreigners supposedly murdered in Mexico, was the belief here today of friends of Gordio and K. Boyd.

Friends of the Boyd brothers reached Douglas today from the Carletons ranch, twenty-six miles east of Colonia, Oaxaca. They reported that the brothers, who had been living on the ranch with their father, J. J. Boyd, had not been seen since July 30.

Their house later was found wide open and deserted. Lying about it and inside were nearly four hundred empty cartridges, showing marks of recent use.

The matter was reported to General Sangre, who sent one of his officers to investigate. The officer later reported to the brothers, their father and their Chinese cook being missing, but gave no other details, it was said.

IF WILLIAMS' PLAN BECOMES THE LAW

Foreign-Built Ships for Coast Trade Barred.

Turned Down in Attempt To Amend

Panama Canal Bill To Admit to Registry Foreign-Built Vessels Owned by Americans, Williams Comes Back with Second Amendment, Which Passes.

Washington, Aug. 8.—John Sharp Williams, of Mississippi, made a second attempt today to have an amendment incorporated in the Panama canal bill admitting to American registry all ships of foreign construction owned by Americans.

Sensors Lodge and Root opposed the amendment on the ground that it will put practically every shipyard in this country out of business and cause a transfer of all the construction of this nature to Clyde and German shipyards.

The Williams amendment was defeated by a vote of thirty-eight to ten, after a discussion in which Williams and Senator Martin clashed. The latter opposed the plan of opening coastwise trade to foreign ships on the ground that it would destroy American shipbuilding.

"I am surprised," asserted Williams, "that a Virginia senator and a Democrat should make a protection speech."

Senator Martin interrupted to deny the right of Williams to construe his remarks as advocating protection. He disclaimed all principles of protection.

"The gentleman from Virginia," retorted Williams, "has traveled along the same lines taken by every protectionist orator in the history of the country. His words speak for themselves. He said the withdrawal of protection would work devastation and a destruction in the Newport News yard."

Senator Gronna, Republican insurgent, took the side of Williams, arguing that he favored any measure which will tend to equalize all classes of shippers.

Senator McCumber opposed the Williams plan, declaring the shipbuilders of this country can not compete with those of foreign countries and need protection.

Undaunted by the senate's rejection of his coastwise-trade amendment, Williams introduced another amendment admitting to American registry foreign-built ships engaged in the foreign trade and owned by citizens of the United States.

Senator Williams second amendment to the bill was carried by a vote of thirty-four to twenty-four. This amendment provides that all legal prohibitions upon American registry of foreign ships engaged only in foreign trade are hereby repealed provided the ships are of exclusive American ownership.

On motion of Senator Gallinger, a resolution was adopted giving to Senator Massis, the new senator from Nevada, the chairmanship of the committee on mines and mining and assignments on committees on agriculture and forestry, claims, coast defense, expenditures in the department of commerce and labor and private land claims.

Urgency Deficiency Bill.

Washington, Aug. 8.—The house today unanimously passed the urgent deficiency appropriation bill carrying a special amendment by which the patent office may be investigated by the economy and efficiency commission. The bill appropriates $6,182,000, which is about $5,000,000 less than the amount asked by the government departments for deficiencies occurring during the present year.

The fashionable figure remains the same—with straight, youthful lines. The idea is to give the effect of suppleness as far as possible.

GREAT DAM GIVES AWAY EARLY TODAY

Gallipolis Structure Costing Over a Million Is Ruined.

Gallipolis, O., Aug. 8.—Damage, roughly estimated at $300,000, was done when Ohio river dam No. 26, near here, gave way early today. The structure which cost more than a million dollars has just been completed by the federal government, and is one of the numerous dams being constructed to make navigation between Pittsburgh and Cairo feasible.

The concrete in the foundation washed away, and with it came tumbling down a great part of the structure, which was considered to be the most highly modernized type of engineering in movable dams.

At least a year will be required to rebuild the structure. The government is now working on three other similar structures at various points along the Ohio river between this city and Pittsburgh.

MUTILATED BODIES OF TWO GIRLS FOUND

A Posse on Trail of Assaults of California Lassies.

Weaverville, Cal., Aug. 8.—The mutilated bodies of Elba Gould, sixteen, and her sister, Kate Gould, thirteen, were found today in a cabin at Steiner's flats, four miles from Douglas City.

The interior showed proofs of a desperate struggle between the girls and their assailants. The walls were spattered with blood, and the scant furniture was broken to pieces. Both had been shot and stabbed, and both had been criminally assaulted.

The young women were San Francisco girls, and went to Steiner's flat for an outing. A posse is trailing the assassins and a lynching is feared.

Senate Disregards Protest of Great Britain.

The Vote Is Four to One and the F

Lief Prevails That All American

Vessels Will Be Placed on Equality—Burton Loses His Fight

To Assess Them Same as Ships of Other Countries.

Washington, Aug. 8.—By a vote four to one the senate decided that American vessels engaged exclusively in coastwise trade are entitled to free passage through the Panama canal. This result came after nearly 12 hours of debate.

The vote came on motion of Senator Theodore Burton of Ohio, who struck from the Panama canal clause which gives free tolls to coastwise shipping. Mr. Burton's motion failed, 44 to 11.

The vote was thought to be significant as foreshadowing a vote in favor of free tolls for all American ships and a clear disregard of Great Britain's protest. The only change in the house bill provision giving tolls to coastwise shipping was insertion, on motion of Senator F. Smith of Georgia, of the qualification "exclusively," which limited free tolls to vessels engaged exclusively in such trade.

This was adopted, 32 to 16. Senator from Georgia tried to introduce another amendment adopted requiring coastwise vessels to pay the toll of the actual operating expense of the canal during their passage through, without recourse upon United States for damages resulting from injuries due to accidents in passage. This was rejected.

SOME COMMENT ON THE STATEMENT OF MAYOR

A Business Man Gives His Views on Wet City.

IS TOO GREAT A JOKE TO PASS WITHOUT NOTICE

Mayor's Views Introduced into the Campaign in Hancock County Do Not Line Up with the Real Situation in Marion—Result of Restoration of Wets.

The following communication from a local business man is called forth by the recent publication in this paper of a signed statement, which appeared in a Findlay paper, regarding moral and business conditions in Marion under the former dry and present wet conditions:

Editor Star: Recently I had come to the conclusion that the Star engaged in the consideration of those serious things now agitating the public mind as to political matters, and had lost its funny side; not editorially, but in its local news and clippings column. However, the charge will not now stand. The publication of the letter of my old friend, Mayor Claude Walters, introduced into the Hancock county wet-and-dry campaign, as it appeared in the Star Saturday, is too big a joke to pass entirely unnoticed. At one bound, your columns, by that publication, have become the rival of Punch, Judge, or any other "Comic." Hancock county, however, had too much sense to adopt Mayor Walters' view, so let us drop that.

Here we are with the city of Marion, with forty saloons pouring out "booze" at the rate of $1,000 per day, a minimum estimate.

We have had one violent death, one railway death, and another victim probably fatally injured, all the result of our return to the wet regime. How any human-being can look upon the frightful condition of affairs in Marion, and assert that the result is an improvement over the dry days is beyond my understanding. The town fairly reeks with the filth, and the vice, and the terrible evil of this destructive traffic.

It is true there are not many arrests, and there will not be under the present administration. The violations of the law against selling liquor to minors and women are extraordinary flagrant. But dropping all considerations of the moral side of the situation, we can safely affirm that the local business interests of Marion will testify almost unanimously that the result of the restoration of the wets to power here, has been disastrous to them.

Mayor Walters, with proper environment, would make a pretty fair magistrate, but this statement of his has given his reputation in that respect a very deep, dark, black eye. A Business Man.

FERGUSON LAD'S BODY RECOVERED

About Fifteen Yards from Where He Lost Life.

After a search of two hours and a half Saturday afternoon the body of Stanton Ferguson, fourteen-year-old son of Wallace Ferguson, of the Sunbury pike, was recovered about fifteen yards below the spot where he disappeared from sight.

Two boatloads of men were searching for the body with hooks and half a dozen men were in the water dragging the bottom with rakes, when Harry Clay stepped on the body about fifteen yards down the river from the spot where the boy's companions said he went down.

The current had swept the boats from the spot and the search continued for ten minutes.

BAPTISTS GATHER AT THE TRINITY CHURCH

Matter of Forming Association Delayed for a Time.

BIG MEETING WILL BE HELD AT PROSPECT SOON

Many Delegates Will Attend the Meeting of the Mt. Vernon Association at Prospect, August 27, and the Plan To Form a County Organization Will Be Taken Up.

Fourteen delegates representing the several Free Baptist churches in Marion county, at a called meeting held in the Trinity Baptist church, Monday afternoon, unanimously voted to defer the forming of a Marion Baptist association until Tuesday, August 27, when the Mt. Vernon association will convene at Prospect.

All the delegates present at Monday's meeting favored the forming of the Marion association eventually, but it was thought best to defer the matter until the meeting of the Mt. Vernon association when definite action will be taken.

The Free Baptist churches have already accepted the articles of faith and covenant of the regular Baptist church, and in reality there is no longer such a denomination in the county as the Free Baptist. Under the terms of the union made some time ago, the Free and the First Baptist churches were merged into the regular.

Rev. H. H. Hoyt, of Green Camp, who was elected moderator at the last quarterly meeting held at Green Camp about two months ago, presided at Monday's meeting. Rev. J. A. Sutton, of LaRue, was to have acted as secretary, but was unable to attend, and Miss Zoe Marthouise, of Upper Sandusky, took his place.

To the prospect session of the Mt. Vernon association, each church represented in Monday's conference will send a delegate or delegates. The representation in the meeting, Monday, was based on one delegate for the first 100, and one additional delegate for each fraction of 100 in every Free Baptist church congregation.

The delegates were Mrs. Roy Paulson, of Big Island; Miss Zee Barthouse, of Upper Sandusky; Miss Emma Lybarger, of Wyandot; John Uncapher and Rev. H. H. Hoyt, of Green Camp; E. S. Brown and C. H. Topf, of La Rue; Rev. J. H. Bagwill, of Morral; and J. S. Rayl, C. S. Lippincott, C. T. Wiant, Mrs. Mary A. Wolford, Duff Henderson and F. O. Tuttle, of Marion.

PRESIDENT SMITH RIDES A BICYCLE

Just To Show That a Man Never Forgets How.

"A man never forgets," said President Smith, as we met him near the campus the other day. "I haven't ridden a wheel for fifteen years, but I'll venture I could start off as steady as anybody." "Here, try it," we said, leading our fifteen-year-old wheel to the curb, and, stuffing his papers in the pockets of his alpaca coat, he mounted the wheel and rode off like a trick rider. But what a sight! Doc. Mohler hailed him and took off his hat in salute. Boarding-house women looked in wonder after the receding figure. "President Smith's got a new wheel," yelled the kids. Busy men turned around in amazement to see the president's summer coat swinging in the breeze on a bicycle for the first time in Ada. But he proved his point, "A man never forgets"—how to ride a wheel.—Ada Record.

DEATH COMES VERY SUDDENLY SUNDAY

To an Aged Woman Resident of City of Gallon.

Mrs. Jacobina Schnauz, eighty-two years old, for a number of years a resident of Gallon, passed away Sunday afternoon at 2:15 o'clock. Her death was due to a stroke of apoplexy which she suffered late Saturday afternoon. Mrs. Schnauz's death comes as a great shock to her many friends as she had been in apparently good health up until the time she was stricken Saturday and died without having regained consciousness. She had been twice married before her marriage to Mr. Longinus Schnauz who preceded her in death about eight years ago. She leaves one child to mourn her death, Charles Rapold, of Cleveland, a son by a former marriage.

The funeral services were held from St. Joseph's church, at Gallon, of which she was a member, Wednesday morning at 8 o'clock.

TWO STORMS STILLED.

By William T. Ellis.

The International Sunday-School Lesson for August 11 is, "A Troubled Sea and a Troubled Soul." Mark 4:35-5:20.

"Over and over it comes to me, The thought of Christ on the stormy sea."

The weary worker holds our imagination more than the raging waves. Worn out with spending his soul's substance for other people, Jesus was lying in the stern of a Galilean fishing boat, asleep. He was tired with just the same sort of tiredness that comes to this world's tired toilers who have spent themselves to the limit. The Son of Man was akin to all His brethren in all their experiences. The world would not willingly lose this picture of the weary Christ, sleeping in sheer exhaustion.

Modern "phophets," who profess to monopolize the mind of the Galilean peasant, travel around the country in private cars, but this was no private yacht in which Jesus sailed. Instead, it was just an ordinary, clumsy, odoriferous fishing boat, with the scales of yesterday's catch smeared over the thwart. It had no cabin, but under the overcast sky on a simple pallet lay the great Teacher, heedless of the bobbing of the boat or the shrieking of the wind or the pounding of the waves. It was such a storm as sweeps down from the hills of the eastern shore of Galilee or as makes sailing on Lake George hazardous. It does not take a great ocean to make a dangerous storm. The little craft was in as much danger on Galilee as if it had been in the middle of the Atlantic.

The Friends to Whom We Turn.

There are some persons to whom their friends naturally turn in trouble. They are the efficient ones. Emergencies bring them to the fore. Just as the apostle Paul dominated his shipwreck scene, so it was, in an incomparably higher degree, with Jesus. He was a master of men and of conditions. His fishermen friends had no thought that He would still the storm, yet they wanted to take refuge in the shelter of His strong character. Therefore their panting arousal of Him as He slept. "The ship that carries Caesar cannot sink." That boat with Jesus aboard was safer than one of the limestone caves in the hills of Nazareth.

The fishermen wanted only comfort, and they got instead a great calm. It is a glory of the Christian faith that Christ always exceeds expectations. They who ask for little get much. His givings are always more than we desire or deserve. The afflicted Galileans were still further amazed when, instead of words of counsel or assurance, Jesus spoke in majesty to the sea, "Peace be still. And the winds ceased and there was a great calm."

Nature is but a servant whose master is God. If we will go part of the way with Christ in acceptance of His character and work, we are bound to go all the way and believe Him when He says, "All authority is given unto Me." To any who are troubled by this miracle, the words of the Master to the disciples in the boat may be repeated, "Have ye not faith?" True, we may marvel with them and cry, "Who, then, is this that even the winds and the sea obey him?" Marvellous beyond compare was that wondrous deed, yet what about Jesus is not marvellous? He who rules the winds and the waves is still Master of this world as in all human history. Let us stand by our simple faith that our Christ is omnipotent. Amid all the changes that we face in these troublous times, this assurance holds us steady, "He who rules is our Redeemer."

The Regnant Power.

Probably the emperor of Japan has greater power over the loyalty and lives of his people than any other monarch. Recently a railway official committed suicide because the emperor's train was a few minutes late. All of Japan would count it a privilege to go to death at the word of the Mikado. Yet what is this power alongside of the regnant might of the sovereign of Galilee? Consider the millions who count obedience to Him the first law of existence. Contemplate the myriads who are rising into new life at His word of power. We shall be missing entirely the significance of these lessons about the kingdom if we do not carry away a sense of the conquering omnipotence of Jesus Christ.

Which ever way we look we see His sovereign power exerted. Here comes word from Zanzibar that the famous slave block of that most noted of all slave marts has been made into an altar for the Livingstone Memorial church. The great block at which it is estimated 8,000,000 slaves were sold, now has preached over it weekly the gospel of liberty. Things are changing in this old world, and behind the change the eyes of faith may see the King. Professor Harlan P. Beach is writing from the heart of pagan Africa to the Sunday-School Times of the surprises in Uganda, where King Daudi, son and grandson of the rulers who persecuted and killed Christians, sits a Christian monarch over a people among whom the British government says are near 500,000 Christians. In the church school of Uganda is the daughter of the man who murdered Bishop Hannington, and her pastor is Bishop Hannington's son. Two-thirds of the members of the Chinese Assembly are Christian. shut out the whole world on the pain of death to intruders, has developed a Christian life so strong that even the power of Japan cannot blot it out. These triumphs over human nature are greater than the stilling of the wind and the waves of the Sea of Galilee.

When Life Is at Stake.

Stormy waters are less tumultuous than the storms that rage in the human breast. If we marvel at the miracle which the fishermen saw let us marvel more at that power which can say, "Peace, be still!" to a turbulent life. The miracle of transformed characters of evil men made good, of passionate men made serene, of avaricious men made generous, is still, as it ever has been, the supreme miracle of nature.

The surco extended to the imperilled boatmen by the stilling of the storm must take second place to the calming of the furies of the demoniac's nature. This poor creature, who dwelt amid the caves and the tombs of the hills that rise abruptly from the eastern shore of Galilee, was an outcast beyond his friends' power to find, control or appease. His strength was abnormal and his delirium was ferocious. In frenzy he cut himself with stones and rent the air with shrieks. An outcast from men, he was feared and yet accorded that strange sort of reverence that the East gives to the insane. I recalled him as I looked upon a poor naked creature wandering about one of the villages of northern Syria, a mendicant and an outcast.

The plight of this demoniac was extreme. Yet Christ cured him. That is the gospel: Jesus saves "unto the uttermost." There are no men beyond His power to change into newness of life. When one calls the roll of his acquaintances who have been outcasts and drunkards, but who are now men of godliness and power, he realizes the potency of these present experiences as witnesses to the miracle-working power of the Savior. If any man finds his faith in Christ's ability to save growing dim, let him visit one of the city rescue missions and hear the testimony of the made-over man. What Jesus did to the demoniac of Gadara He is still doing for tormented mankind.

Stirring Up Evil Spirits.

A few days ago there died the man who coined the phrase, "We love him for the enemies that he has made." Strong characters always create foes, especially if they be strong for righteousness. When the demoniac came to Jesus the evil spirits cried out against Him. They recognized Him as their implacable antagonist. The Master always had enemies in the spiritual world, and among men and women. That sugar-and-water philosophy which thinks it can get through life without any strife finds little support in the biography of the gentlest of earth's teachers.

Goodness, when it is really effective, always provokes enmity. There never was a real revival that did not create a flareback of slander. One of the "woes" of Christ was spoken against that type of character which finds its reward in the praise of men: "Woe unto you when all men speak well of you."

The "Let Us Alone" Policy.

The evil legions asked nothing of this Master except that He let them alone. When a party arose in politics a few years ago, representing prosperity and "big business" and began to cry, "Let us alone," it did not realize that this quotation was taken from the lips of evil demons. Evil always "stands pat." It wants merely to be let alone. Existing conditions are good enough for it, for it knows that any change will make them worse, from its standpoint.

That which is bad cannot hope to win on a platform of avowed badness or progressive injustice. Therefore it raises the banner "in statu quo." It considers all reform and progress and enlightenment inimical to its welfare. In this world of progress, all who would be counted on the side of righteousness should be open-eyed to the facts that it is commonly the evil which cries, "Let us alone."

About Those Swine.

The evil spirits from the demoniac pleaded to be permitted to enter the neighboring swine, and Jesus granted this request. Straightway the swine ran down the declivity and were drowned in the sea, 2,000 of them. What a howl there has been through the centuries, but especially in our own time, about those 2,000 pigs! Doubtless they belonged to renegade Jews, who were raising them to sell to the Roman soldiers. It was an illegal business for the Jew to be in; but nevertheless the same sympathy that is created when revenue officers pour into the gutter casks of confiscated liquors, is called forth by this spectacle of sacrificed pork. Some persons see nothing in the story, but this injury to vested interests. They seemingly care more for the stock than for the man.

Let us grant that it cost 2,000 swine to save one man. The "conscience of our time will say the transaction was a good one. The old days when six per cent. from the investment was more important than the condition of the toiler are passing rapidly away. The sanctity of the stockholders' right to profit is considered less than the sanctity of health and happiness. Life is seen to be the most sacred thing. Let us drive out the evil spirits from our commerce and our industry and our politics, and if the cost is high, the gain is worth it.

Make no mistake about it: the same master Spirit who calmed the waves on Galilee, and who drove out the evil spirits from the afflicted man, is still regnant in the world today. He is calming the strife of our age and bidding wars to cease. He is delivering men and women and little children from the thraldoms of sin within themselves, and the yokes and burdens that greed and ignorance put upon them from without. He is the ages' Conqueror.

Miss Ethel G. Cook and Mr. Paul E. Keller Married.

Miss Ethel Grace Cook, daughter of John W. Cook, of Waldo, and formerly a clerk in J. H. Rawlings & Son's store in this city, was united in marriage to Mr. Paul E. Keller, a son of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel H. Keller, of Bellefontaine avenue, at Allentown, Pennsylvania, last Sunday. The ceremony was performed by Dr. Eli Keller, grandfather of the groom, at his home in that city at noon. In the presence of only a small company including Mrs. S. H. Keller and Miss Helen Peuser, of this city, and Mrs. Mary K. Halbach, of Allentown, an aunt of the groom.

Friends from Bangor, Wind Gap and Easton, neighboring towns, gave a reception for them at the Keller home in the afternoon. They received many beautiful gifts.

Mr. and Mrs. Keller are very well known in Marion and have many friends here. Mr. Keller is employed in the office of the Susquehanna silk mills. The young people will return to Marion after a wedding trip through eastern Pennsylvania, and will be at home to their friends after August 19 at No. 373 Bellefontaine avenue.

Viewers Appointed.

Charles Cunningham, J. W. Burtfield and W. S. Cluff were appointed viewers for the Briggs pike road in Scott township by the county commissioners, Monday afternoon.

TEACHERS ARE ELECTED BY THE SCHOOL BOARD

An Adjourned Meeting Is Held Friday Evening

MUCH BUSINESS GIVEN ATTENTION

R. E. Davis Is Named as the Head of the Department of Manual Training—
Some Teachers Are Given Advance in Salaries and Additional Duties

F. P. Holdren, Miss Eliza Dickerson and C. C. Barnes were employed as new teachers in the Marion High school. Streeter G. Smith was employed as a principal for one of the local school buildings. R. E.
Davis formerly of Mt. Gilead was selected as director of the manual training department. Miss Mary Wright was named supervisor of music and four new grade teachers were selected at an adjourned meeting of the board of education Friday evening.

Mr. Holdren is especially trained along the line of history and English and will likely be given those studies.
He is now employed in the schools at Wapakoneta. He is a graduate of the Ohio Wesleyan university and has had two years experience as a teacher. Miss Dickerson is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. B. Dickerson, of this city and is a graduate of Cornell university. She was graduated from the Marion High school with the class of 1907. Mr. Barnes is located at Ada and is a graduate of the Ohio Northern university.
He has also done post-graduate work at Yale. He has had four years experience as a teacher.

The Salaries Fixed

Mr. Holdren is employed at a salary of $100 a month, and Miss Dickerson at a salary of $75 a month while Mr. Barnes is to be paid $100 a month. All were recommended by Superintendent Henry A.
Hartman and were elected unanimously.

Streeter G. Smith will be stationed at one of the local buildings by Superintendent Hartman when the assignments are made. He is employed at a salary of $80 a month.
Mr. Smith has had long experience as a teacher in and about Marion county. He was elected unanimously.
Mr. Smith has a state certificate.

Miss Mary Wright of Columbus
who was named to succeed Earl C.
Starbuck as supervisor of music in the local schools was employed at a salary of $85 a month. E. E. Hipsher of this city was an applicant for the position. Superintendent Hartman stated that there were many requests that the supervisor of music in the schools be a woman and he made his recommendation accordingly. Mr. Hartman recommended Mr. Starbuck some time ago but the board failed to confirm the nomination. Member H. Edmund Hill voted against the confirmation of the nomination of Miss Wright and he claimed that he favored home talent for the place.

R. E. Davis Elected

A salary of $1100 a year is to be paid R. E. Davis who is to be director of the manual training department. Mr. Davis comes from Birmingham, Alabama and has had much experience along this line.
Announcement was made in the Mt.
Gilead papers and in the Star recently that Mr. Davis had been employed in the school here and he was given a round of criticism by the board members for allowing such matter to be published concerning him.

If we look for a perfect man we will likely never find one, said
President Sauer. After an interval
Mr. Davis was elected with the one dissenting vote of Mr. Hill.

The grade teachers selected by the board were Miss Gladys Cuthbert of Rue, Miss Elizabeth Dowell of Prospect, Miss Maude Clark of near LaRue and Miss Sylvia Sellers of this city. They were employed at a salary of $60 a month each and were elected unanimously.

Superintendent Hartman called the attention of the board members to the matter of preparing for manual training in the schools. Some equipment must be purchased and general plans made for this department. The members will make investigations this week and action may be taken at the next regular meeting.

Miss A. J. Whiting brought up the matter relating to an increase in salary for Miss Elizabeth Dairs.
Mrs. Whiting said that Miss Dairs stood high as a teacher.

Member R. J. Pennell declared that a great many of the teachers were asking for more money and he thought the matter should be taken up as a whole.

Raise in Salaries

I would be willing to give every teacher in these schools an increase of five dollars a month if we had the money, he said.

The question was asked as to the financial standing of the board at this time and Member O. G. Briggs moved that the finance committee report at the next meeting.

Miss Hattie Christian who is to be principal at the Mark Street building was given an increase in salary from $60 to $70 a month.

Superintendent Hartman stated that because of the fact that several teachers in the High school are teaching the same subject, some teacher should look after and direct the work in a general way. Miss Olla Allmendinger was then named the head of the Latin department and given an increase in salary. She will receive $95 a month. Miss Frances Bowdle was named head of the English department and H. C.

Gegenheimer as head of the mathematical department. A. F. Jantzer was selected as the head of the German department.

Matter of Janitors

Member R. J. Pennell moved that the salaries of janitors Fred Katz-ler, James Wertz and N. J. Rouse be fixed at $50 a month and that the committee on janitors have power to place the men. Member Briggs wanted to know why but three men should be placed under the direction of a committee and not all of the janitors. A vote was taken and the measure carried,
Briggs dissenting.

P. S. Wilson was instructed to receive bids and estimate the amount of coal to be needed in the schools this winter. He will report at the next meeting.

Because there will be no sewer connections ready at the Mark street building at the time school opens the building and grounds committee was instructed to arrange for out-buildings there.

An estimate of $1500 was given the American Heating, Warming & Ventilating company which is working on the new furnaces in the High school building.

The board members arranged so that any members visiting other schools should investigate as to the double extension bolts used.

The salary of Miss Harriet Smith, a teacher in the High school, recently elected, was raised from $70 to $80.

Question as to Hays

The board members are puzzled to know if Glenn W. Hays is an applicant for a position in the science department of the High school next year. No resignation has been received but it is understood that Mr.
Hays will not serve for the salary offered him and Superintendent Hartman was directed to confer with him. The board members, however, did not appear very well pleased with the attitude of Mr. Hays who attended a meeting of the board
some time ago and engaged in a wrangle with Member Pennell as to his salary. A report has it that he is to enter business. When a selection is made in the science department a head will be named for this department as was done in the other departments.

The members talked of the improvements made on the grounds of the Marion High school and the Central School buildings.

Mr. Wilson stated that a suggestion had been made that the walk in front of the High school building be elevated or placed on the corners of the lot to the building,
and a new walk be laid in front.
Some lights will be placed about the grounds so that there will be no dark recesses.

With the exception of Mrs. Jeanette Lammer Hutchinson all members were present at the meeting.
H. Edmund Hill acted as clerk.

MISS LULU TWINING HEARD AT COURTHOUSE

Delivers an Address to Several Hundred People.

SOCIALIST WOMAN RESIDING IN DENVER

Is a Former Candidate for Congress on the Socialist Ticket—She Talks to the People of the Importance of Women Having the Ballot. Some Thoughts for Consideration.

Miss Lulu Twining, of Denver, Colorado, who ran for congress on the Socialist ticket four years ago, spoke on woman's suffrage and Socialism from the west steps of the courthouse Tuesday night. She was heard by several hundred people with close attention.

Miss Twining, a speaker of marked ability, was attired in white, from her hat down to her shoes. Her appearance and manner impressed her audience. She is about thirty years old, with red hair and a pleasant countenance.

"Why do women want the right of franchise?" Miss Twining asked, following her introduction by a little girl, who in doing so recited some poetry eulogizing Eugene V. Debs, the well-known Socialist leader.

"Why do women want to vote? Well, that is none of the business of the men. It is sufficient that they want to vote. The one who guards the morals of your home, the one who raises the voter to manhood when he may cast the ballot, is surely capable of exercising the right of franchise intelligently."

"The question of how the women are going to vote is not at issue. Men have no right to ask such a question. You don't ask how the young man is going to vote when he reaches his majority."

"I live in a state where the women vote the same as the men and there they have demonstrated that they know how to vote. Nobody questions that the women can vote as intelligently as the men. That question is a back number. The women know how to vote and they vote, too."

Eventually Miss Twining drifted off into Socialism. "In 1896, William Jennings Bryan stood with a sword over the bent neck of the poor workingman," she said. "He said, 'I am going to cut the dollar, which was on his neck, in two without hurting you; just stand still.' And the dollar has been cut in two since, not the way that Mr. Bryan figured it would be with his sixteen-to-one plan. The dollar has been split half in two by the high cost of living. In ten years the cost of living has increased fifty per cent. The purchasing value of a dollar is half what it was ten years ago."

"Socialism and woman's suffrage are the salvation of the country," Miss Twining said.

GEORGE W. CLARK IS GIVEN THE VERDICT

Wins Contention in Court of Justice C. E. Gompf.

This afternoon, in the court of Justice Charles E. Gompf, a jury awarded George W. Clark a verdict for $18.44 against Lenox Reber. Clark sued to recover $118.44 damages.

The suit was a sequel to the sale of a big safe at the time Reber sold Mr. Clark the old Millholland Pressed Brick company's plant. Clark claimed that he bought the safe of Reber and Reber claimed that he did not buy it. Clark replevined the safe and was awarded custody of it by Justice Gompf. Reber then appealed to the court of common pleas, but later dismissed the action after paying the costs.

Clark, although he had the safe, did not know the combination and Reber refused to give it to him. He found it necessary to have an expert come here and open the safe for him. He claimed that the expert's bill for this was $18.44 and he sued Reber to recover the amount, together with $100 additional. The jury awarded him $18.44, the amount he paid the expert. At the time he bought the safe Clark claimed that Reber told him it contained books, etc., valued at $100.

BESSIE M. CRAWBAUGH BEGINS A PROCEEDING

Starts Second Suit for a Divorce Wednesday Morning.

CHARGES CRUELTY ON PART OF HER HUSBAND

Says Husband Locks Her Out of House and Later Knocks Her Down with a Chair—An Injunction Is Issued in the Matter. Common Pleas Court Items.

Bessie M. Crawbaugh, who began an action for a divorce from Harvey E. Crawbaugh last February and had the proceedings dismissed in March, Wednesday, through Mouser & Moloney, instituted proceedings a second time for a divorce. She says she went back to live with her husband on his faithful promise to be good to her, but avers that he soon began to be "cross, irritable and sullen, until finally he would become angry about nothing, and at times would not speak to her for several days."

During his spells of anger, the wife says he would accuse her of unbecoming conduct and curse and abuse her in the presence of their little child. July 25, last, the plaintiff says her husband accompanied her and their child to the Chautauqua, where he left them, promising to return after them. He failed to return and when she arrived home she found her husband had locked and barred the doors. She says she tore a screen open and got into the house only to be ordered out at 10 o'clock at night by her husband, who is alleged to have knocked her down with a chair and then struck the child.

The Crawbaughs were married in this city, March 3, 1909, and have one son, aged three years. The wife asks for the custody of the boy and reasonable alimony. Probate Judge W. S. Spencer, in the absence of the common pleas judges, granted a temporary injunction restraining the defendant from disposing of or encumbering his real estate.

Denying that the several shipments of wire were delivered to John G. Webb without the knowledge and consent of the John A. Roebblings Sons' company, of Trenton, New Jersey, or that the wire was improperly and unlawfully used by Webb in the construction of the overhead wire of the Columbus, Marion & Bucyrus Railroad company, the Troy Trust company, of Troy, New York, as trustee for the road, filed an answer to the cross petition of the John A. Roebblings Sons' company in the court of common pleas, Wednesday.

The Troy Trust company further denies that the title to the wire belongs to the John A. Roebblings Sons' company, and avers that it is subject to the mortgage executed by the latter to the Troy Trust company. In equity and good conscience, the Troy Trust company says the wire ought to be sold as the property of the Columbus, Marion & Bucyrus Railroad company in the foreclosure proceedings now pending.

It is recited that, November 27, 1909, the New Jersey company brought suit in Clark county to recover judgment of $8,848.19 for the wire and that in 1910 it obtained judgment as prayed for, with interest. A similar suit was brought in Crawford county, it is alleged. It is claimed that by reason of the cross-petitioner's suit against the C. M. & E. it virtually acknowledged the road to be the owner of the wire.

The Troy Trust company's answer to the cross-petition was filed by Finley & Gallinger, of Bucyrus.

LOCUST LEAF-BEETLE DOES NOT KILL TREES

They Usually Come Out Fresh and Green in Spring.

According to advice of the United States department of agriculture, the brown and apparently-dying condition of the yellow or black locust in the states of Virginia, Maryland, Pennsylvania, West Virginia and Ohio is caused by a leaf-mining and leaf-skeletonizing insect known as the locust leaf-beetle. The secretary of agriculture, whose expert on forest insects has had the work of this insect under observation since 1890, states that nearly every summer the brownish appearance of the locust in small to extensive areas attracts attention and is the cause of considerable inquiry and some alarm. However, with a few exceptions, the trees recover and come out fresh and green the following spring.

HALF DOLLAR MAY BRING HER FORTUNE

A Gallon Woman Is Possessor of a Very Rare Coin.

Mrs. J. M. Deibig, of Gallon, is the possessor, it is said, of one of the three fifty-cent pieces bearing the date 1850. It is claimed only three coins of that denomination and date are known to be in existence. An Atlanta policeman who has one of the three was recently offered $2500 for it, but refused the offer. The other coin is owned by a Los Angeles man. A newspaper story drew the Gallon woman's attention to the value of the coin which she had had for a number of years. She has written coin collectors to get the story verified, and she says she will part with her half dollar for $2500.

Mrs. Deibig is a daughter of Mrs. Godfrey Mayer, of north Union street.

Charles Brown, his roommate, was missing Wednesday and is suspected of having stolen the articles. Brown's description was given to the police and a search for him is being made.

Much alarm was caused Mrs. J. F. McKinstry and Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Fetter, of east Center street, over the disappearance of one of the daughters of Mrs. McKinstry and a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fetter, each of whom are about sixteen years of age, Tuesday evening.

The girls made a trip up town, Tuesday evening, and when they failed to return home at a reasonable hour, a search for them was started. Their disappearance was reported to the police and they joined in the search to locate the girls. The parents and others were of the opinion that the girls had run away, but there was no occasion for such action on their part. During the entire night, the mothers of the girls fretted and worried over the absence of their daughters and, Wednesday, the police were again requested to make an effort to find them. Later it was reported to the police that the girls had been located at the home of an uncle near Claridon, they explaining that they had gone there to spend the night, having walked out.

The foreigner has about $50 coming from the company and when he calls to receive the amount he will likely be caught.

Between 10 and 11 o'clock, Tuesday night, the estranged wife of William "Peg" Massie reported to the police that Massie had fired several shots at her and requested the officers to arrest him. She stated she would appear, Wednesday, and file an affidavit against him. Shortly after 11 o'clock, Tuesday night, Massie was arrested by Officer Rizer. Wednesday, his wife called and swore to an affidavit against her husband charging him with shooting with intent to wound.

A woman giving her name as Young applied to the police, Tuesday night, for assistance in locating her husband. The woman came here from Norton, Tuesday evening, and her husband, who is supposed to be working in the shops of the Marion Steam Shovel company, was to have met her at the station. The husband failed to make his appearance and he could not be located. The woman explained that she had no money and had to borrow enough money to pay her car fare to Marion. The officers provided her with lodging for the night and Wednesday, she was sent back to her home at Norton by S. N. Titus, township trustee.

In Congress.

John H. Willis, of Marysville, who was nominated for congress at the primary in May by Democrats of the Eighth district, announced Wednesday that he has decided to make the race for reelection as prosecuting attorney instead of running for congress. It is understood that the Bull Moose party will have a candidate for congress to oppose Congressman Frank B. Willis.

PREPARATIONS FOR PLEASANT OUTING

Big Sunday-School Picnic in the Harris Grove.

Great preparations and plans are being made for the Bell's Sunday-school picnic about five miles south of La Rue and one mile west of Bell's school house in the W. L. Harris grove. The date has been set for August 29, the last Thursday in August.

All neighboring schools, classes, associations, leagues and churches have been officially invited to be present and are expected to participate in the program. Music, both vocal and instrumental, recitations, rehearsals, addresses and orations will add to the enjoyment of the occasion. The committee is sparing nothing to make this celebration far surpass all preceding gatherings in that part of Marion county.

A number of new features will be introduced for the entertainment of all classes. The committee invites all to attend with their families, companions, and neighbors, and carry baskets filled to have an all-day outing in a quiet grove where it will give an opportunity to renew old friendships and visit the school and old acquaintances.

does it condemn the Payne-Aldrich tariff law and the Democratic tariff plank at Baltimore, and in addition it demands the immediate repeal of the Canadian reciprocity act.

The platform leads off as follows: "The Progressive party, committed to the principle of government by a self-controlled democracy expressing its will through representatives of the people, pledges itself to secure such alterations in the fundamental law of the several states and of the United States as shall insure the representative character of the government. In particular the party declares for direct primaries for the nomination of state and national officers, for nation-wide preferential primaries for candidates for the presidency, for the direct election of United States senators by the people, and we urge on the states the policy of the short ballot, with responsibility to the people secured by the initiative, referendum and recall."

"The Progressive party, believing that a free people should have the power from time to time to amend their fundamental law so as to adapt it progressively to the changing needs of the people, pledges itself to provide a more easy and expeditious method of amending the fundamental constitution."

The platform then pledges itself to the following tasks:

Favor Votes For Women.
Equal suffrage to men and women alike; limitation of campaign contributions and expenditures and detailed publicity of both before as well as after primaries and elections; forbidding federal officeholders from holding office in state or national political organizations or taking part in political conventions; for the reform of legal procedure and judicial methods; effective legislation looking to the prevention of industrial accidents, occupational diseases, overwork, involuntary unemployment; the fixing of minimum safety and health standards for the various occupations; the prohibition of child labor; minimum wage standards for working women; prohibition of night work for women and the establishment of an 8-hour day for women and young persons; one day's rest in seven for all wage workers; the 8-hour day in continuous 24-hour industries; abolition of contract convict labor system; strong national regulation of interstate commerce through a federal commission; tariff revision downward wherein duties are shown to be unjust or excessive; the establishment of a nonpartisan scientific tariff commission; a graduated inheritance tax; international agreement for the limitation of naval armament; the present policy of building two battleships a year; pensions for American soldiers, their widows and children; immediate creation of a parcels post with rates proportionate to distance and service.

There was more or less friction in the committee on platform over a liquor plank. Quite a number of the members desired a national plank calling for more or less prohibition, but Colonel Roosevelt decided that this was a state question and not a national one. In other words, he adopted a similar course to that of Colonel Bryan at Baltimore.

Colonel Roosevelt, in accepting the nomination, said in part:

"Mr. Chairman and men and women who in this convention represent the high and honest purposes of the people of all our country. I come forward to thank you from my heart for the honor you have conferred on me and to say that of course I accept."

"That I hold it—and now I am measuring my words. I have been president. I have seen and known much of life—and I hold it by far the greatest honor and the greatest opportunity that has ever come to me to be called by you to the leadership for the time being of this great movement in the interests of the American people."

Has Peculiar Feeling.
"I have a peculiar feeling toward Governor Johnson. Nearly two years ago, after the election of 1910, when what I had striven to accomplish in New York had come to nothing, and when my friends the enemy exulted—possibly prematurely—over what had beaten me, Governor Johnson in the flush of his own triumph, having just shall hand to my children and children's children, because of what the letter contains and because of the man who wrote it; a letter of trust and belief, a letter of ardent championship from the soldier who was at the moment victorious, toward his comrade who at that moment had been struck down."

"In Governor Johnson we have a man whose every word is made good by the deeds that he has done. A man who, as the head of a great state, has practically applied in that state for the benefit of the people of that state the principles which we intend to apply throughout the Union as a whole. We have nominated the only type of man who ever ought to be nominated, as for the vice presidency we have nominated a man fit at the moment to be president of the United States."

"And, friends, with all my heart and soul, with every particle of high purpose that is in me, I pledge you my word to do everything I can, to put every particle of courage, of common sense and of strength that I have at your disposal and to endeavor, so far as strength is given me, to live up to the obligations you have put upon me and to endeavor to carry out in the interests of our whole people the policies to which you have today solemnly dedicated yourselves to the millions of men and women for whom you speak. I thank you."

Governor Johnson in his speech of acceptance paid high tribute to the character of Colonel Roosevelt, and said his one desire "shall be from now until November, with what virility, what force, what fighting strength I have, to follow him under his leadership, to go forward to better and purer things in this country of ours, and to win the battle that you have just commenced in this nation."

Dixon Is Chairman.
Chicago, Aug. 8.—The Progressive national committee met and elected Senator Dixon chairman. It was suggested that C. E. Straus of New York should be treasurer of the committee, but Mr. Straus says he does not desire the post.

Other evidence corroborating allegations of Rose is accumulating rapidly.

Two police inspectors; it is said, may be indicted as a result of the mass of incriminating testimony in the hands of the district attorney.

One of the inspectors is said to command one of the most important precincts in New York; the second is not now in command, but is said to exert great influence.

It was learned today that John D. Rockefeller, Jr., with the assistance of James B. Reynolds, assistant district attorney for the past year, has been operating a pretended disorderly house in the heart of the "White Light" district for the purpose of securing evidence against police officials, politicians and the procurers of young girls.

Never Appear in House.
Men who were dictating its management never appeared at the house, which is located in the west Forties. Orders were carried out by a manager and her assistants.

One of the men associated with Rockefeller is said to be Clifford E. Roe, of Chicago, who aided in the white slave investigation two years ago. Later Roe went to Chicago, and assisted Federal District Attorney Sims in a campaign against white slave traffic there.

A sensation was caused by a report that Mr. Rockefeller has turned over to the district attorney's office testimony showing that a police inspector and a civilian confederate of the leaders of the "police system" collected tribute. Other evidence of police blackmail was obtained, it is alleged.

District Attorney Whitman will make a herculean effort to unroot the police system, and drive graft out of the police force.

First, however, he will not press this campaign until after he has completed the Rosenthal case.

Evidence Being Considered.
Washington, Aug. 8.—The evidence unearthed by young John D. Rockefeller's decoy house against New York police, politicians and white slavers is to be examined by the department of justice. Attorney General Wickersham was given the facts in the case today and it is said he will order an immediate investigation to determine if the law is being violated.

Burns in the Game.
New York, Aug. 8.—"I have collected evidence which will assist District Attorney Whitman in obtaining many indictments."

This statement was made by Detective William J. Burns, who has been investigating police graft in this city. Switching from his denial of yesterday, Burns admitted today that he had run two disorderly houses and one gambling establishment in this city to trap grafters.

"It is a fact," said Burns, "that I operated two disorderly houses and a gambling place in order to get evidence. Likewise I had detectives posing as waiters in a Broadway hotel, who stood near police officials and overheard what they said concerning certain deals."

"Not only this, but I also had a telephone installed in a room where politicians played poker, and we heard all of their conversation. I have a great deal of other evidence, also."

Inspector Edward P. Hughes, of the detective bureau, who has been searching the Catskills for the gunman, Harry Horowitz and "Lefty Louie," is now confined to his Brooklyn home suffering from pneumonia.

cation being entirely cut off by the rebels, it is impossible to obtain authentic news from the interior of Nicaragua, and Minister Weigel Witzel today reported to the state department that he feared for the safety of Americans in the central part of the state. It is not probable, however, that the United States forces will be ordered to advance, unless word reaches here that Americans are in danger.

Meanwhile, the navy department is holding another detachment of marines ready for active service at Panama, and these will be rushed to Corinto immediately should the occasion demand it.

AN AGED WANDERER TURNS UP IN TEXAS

Is a Snipe-Shooter and Without a Home.

REMEMBERS MARION AS SMALL VILLAGE

At One Time Works with Father as a Gardener Near This City—Does Not Smoke Until He Is Fifty-Five Years Old and Is Not Married Until He Begins Smoking.

The Ft. Worth, Texas, Star-Telegram in a recent issue makes reference to a man, who will doubtless be remembered by many of the older residents of the city, as follows:

John Lee, eight-four, feeble and bent, stood in the shadow of the big Livestock Exchange building, north side, Tuesday afternoon watching the thousands of employes stream from the packing plants.

"And they all have a place to sleep," he muttered in an undertone.

For sixty-two years John Lee has made his way up and down the continent from New York to New Orleans and from New Orleans to Du-buque. He served as a deck hand on the old "Robert E. Lee," when steamboating on the Mississippi was in its palmiest days. Now he is a humble plodder. He goes about the Southwest gathering up cigar and cigarette discards and marketing them in New Orleans.

Thirty-five years ago John Lee was employed on the Texas & Pacific railroad. He worked in and out of Fort Worth as a track laborer and helped in pushing the main line across the plains of West Texas. In those days he was considered a track-laying expert and made good money, but he has always been a soldier of fortune, sometimes up and sometimes down.

He was born in England and came to America in 1850, being just twenty-two years old. His father came with him from Briggshaw, or for a few years they gardened near Marion, Ohio, during the summer and in the winter worked on the railroads. He tells how Marion was nothing but a cornfield at that time, nor was he bought and sold whisky for fifteen cents a gallon—and it is none of this stuff that is sold over the bars for $1.75 per quart nowadays," he says.

Clelie Jim never smoked until he was fifty-five years old and he was never married until he began smoking.

In a sack he carried fully two pounds of cigar and cigarette stumps.

"I sell these in New Orleans for eleven cents a pound and get the ready cash. When I get enough of 'em I'll ship them to New Orleans. And the fine ladies of the land will be dipping snuff made from these."

JOHN V. WILSON SELLS INSURANCE BUSINESS

Fred and Clifford Hoch Are the Purchasers.

John V. Wilson, who has been engaged in the insurance business in Marion for the past eighteen years, has disposed of his insurance agency to Fred and Clifford Hoch, transfers being filed Wednesday. Messrs. Hoch assumed immediate charge of the business. Both of the new proprietors are well known, having formerly been engaged in farming.

Mr. Wilson announces that he expects to devote his future time to the interest of the American Carrara Marble company, of which he is the president. "I expect to remain in Marion until about the middle of November, when I shall go to Los Angeles, California, where I will give my personal attention to the development of the big marble quarry located on the California and Nevada state line," he said.

It is estimated that on each working day during this term of service Mr. Crane has covered on an average of twenty-four miles per day, a total distance of 167,376 miles, without making an allowance for Sunday travel or switching.

Should you not be interested in the fact that this number of miles is sufficient to have carried him seven times around the earth, you might care to know that he could have made the round trip from Mt. Gilead to New York 160 times and had miles to spare, or could have made 320 trips to Chicago, or sixteen round trips by way of San Francisco to Hong Kong, which is about 10,000 miles from Mt. Gilead.

And this man, after having gone into Edison 41,344 times and back again to Mt. Gilead, is still traveling. One would think the scenery would become a little tiresome, but "Billy" doesn't seem to mind. He has served under five different conductors, and has been just as exacting with each day's work in all sorts of weather and in all seasons of the year.

Arrangements were made to hold the next reunion at the same place the third Thursday in August, 1913.

DEFUNCT COMPANY HAS SOME MONEY

About $100 Remains To Be Distributed to Stockholders.

Senator R. H. Finefrock, of Prospect, president of the Prospect Gas & Oil company, was authorized to surrender the corporation's charter at a meeting of the stockholders in the office of Attorney J. Wilbur Jacoby, Wednesday afternoon.

The company was organized several years ago with a capital of $48,000. Several hundred acres in the southern part of Marion county and in Delaware county were leased. Two wells were sunk in the hope of finding gas or oil.

At Wednesday's meeting, it was voted to cancel the leases and distribute $100, the amount left in the treasury. "They fact that we have any money to distribute is a little unusual for a defunct oil and gas company," said Attorney Jacoby today.

About $8,000 of the company's stock was sold.

FRANK TREDMORE IS VICTIM OF ROBBERS

Is Held Up and Beaten by Three Unknown Men.

ASSAULT FOLLOWS ATTEMPT TO BEFRIEND

The Hoyle & Moyer Garage is Bargained—Number of Auto Tires Are Stolen—Edward Uncapher Reports the Loss of His Bicycle.
Local Police Court Items.

Frank Tredmore, of Darius street, was the victim of a bold hold-up between 7 and 8 o'clock Wednesday night, and besides being relieved of his purse, which contained a little over $10 and some papers of value to him, he was badly beaten up. The hold-up was the result of too much liberality on the part of Tredmore.

Tredmore, who is a steam shovel operator, met a couple of strangers
in the West End about 7 o'clock.
One of the fellows professed to be in the same line of work as Tredmore,
but claimed to be out of employment and financially broken. He displayed a card which was to substantiate his statement, but Tredmore knew that it was not the kind of a card held by him. However, Tredmore bought the fellows a lunch and informed them that if they had no place to stay they could have a night's lodging at his home.

The three men started down
Davids street, and when a dark spot was reached one of the men struck Tredmore. The other followed with a blow. While the men used some sort of weapons, Tredmore was putting up a good fight to save himself from the attack until a third party took a hand. He was soon subdued and relieved of his purse, after which the fellows made their escape. The hold-up was reported to the police a short time later, but the fellows could not be located. Tredmore was badly beaten about the head, but was able to be around Thursday.

Edward Uncapher reported to the police that his bicycle was stolen.
Wednesday night, from the lobby of the Huber building. Uncapher gave a description of the bicycle which has a black frame, coaster brake and new Fletcher tires. One of the rims is slightly warped.

The Hoyle & Moyer garage, on McWilliams court, was entered by burglars, Tuesday night, and ten second-hand tires of various makes were stolen. The tires were in good condition and of considerable value.
How the thieves gained entrance to the place could not be learned as nothing was broken. The tires were thrown out of a back window onto a sand pile and were undoubtedly hauled away. The police have been searching for the stolen property and have a clue that may lead to an arrest unless the tires are returned.

The police have received a communication from Chief Ertley, of Massillon, asking them to be on the lookout for a man who robbed the residence of E. C. Merwin, at that place, and stole two suits of clothes,
a pair of trousers, watch, cuff links,
several rings and other small articles of jewelry. The burglary occurred last Monday, but the stolen property has not made its appearance here.

William Massie, who was arrested
Tuesday night on a charge of shooting at his estranged wife, was arraigned before the mayor, Wednesday afternoon, for hearing Massie entered a plea of not guilty to the charge against him and stated that he could prove that he was playing at a dance at the time the shooting occurred. He was released on his own recognizance to appear before the mayor when sent for.

At 3 p. m. Thursday Officer
Powell took charge of the rig of P.
Malo, which the latter left standing in the wrong direction on north Main street, and placed it in the city pound. Mayo was very indignant over the action of the officer. Before he would appear before the mayor he stated he would see an attorney and fight the case.

Mrs. Caroline Boyd filed an affidavit in the mayor's court, Wednesday night, charging Mrs. Carrie Bishop with abusing her by calling her bad names. A warrant for the arrest of the Bishop woman was issued, but the woman happened to be away from home and it will be served on her return.

The local police have been asked by the Richmond authorities to try and locate and arrest Walter Car-mean, who is wanted at Richmond for desertion of his wife and three children. The local officers have been looking for the man, but have been unable to find him.

A man giving his name as Ryan was arrested, Wednesday afternoon, by Officer Thompson for begging on the streets. Ryan was arrested Tuesday morning on the same charge and released and ordered to leave the city. It appears he was not successful in the begging game, for he had no money. As a result of his failing to comply with the orders to leave town and being arrested a second time, he is being held at the prison.

A WEEKLY SHOOT OF THE MARION GUN CLUB

Rain Prevents the Shooters from Finishing Scores.

The weekly shoot of the Marion Gun club was held at the club's grounds, north of the city, Wednesday afternoon. Regardless of the rain there were a number of visitors present and considering the weather the scores made were very good. About twenty-five shooters were present, but before they could all finish, the rain broke up the sport.

Joseph H. Mason, who shoots for the Peters Cartridge company, gave a fine exhibition. Mason broke fifty straight targets in a fifty-bird event, shooting the last twenty-five in a hard rain and under a bad wind.
The other high scores out of a possible fifty were as follows:

Herman Feldner, forty-five;
Harry May, forty-one; Dr. N. F. Tilton, thirty-eight; S. E. Godden, thirty-seven; A. E. Mautz, thirty-seven; J. B. Stines, thirty-six; Edward Martin, of Cleveland, thirty-five; E. R. Campbell, thirty-four; J.
E. Messenger, thirty-three.

Friends of the club are invited to participate in the shoot to be held next Wednesday afternoon, at which time a large number of out-of-town visitors will be present.

SAYS WILSON IS DODGING ISSUES

Taft's Campaign Manager Gives a Statement.

New York, Aug. 8.—Secretary
D. Hilles, who is directing President Taft's campaign, gave out a statement Thursday aimed at Woodrow Wilson and his speech of acceptance.
The statement accused the Democratic nominee of dodging issues, and declared that his speech at Seaview yesterday was surprisingly conservative. It also contains a list of questions for the governor to answer.

Mr. Hilles terms the speech of acceptance as entertaining, but says views it contained are so radically different from those of William Bryan that the nominee seems have repudiated the Democratic form and its maker.

Officer James Cusick returned duty, Thursday, after taking

he is entitled. Captain Bond sta-

WILSON SPEECH OF ACCEPTANCE

Insists That the Whole People Be Consulted

NOMINEE OUTLINES
CAMPAIGN POLICIES

In Correcting the Evils of the Present Day

Immediate Downward Revision of the Tariff Is Favored by the Democratic Nominee for the Presidency—Amendments to Sherman Law and Legislation Looking to Curbbing of Monopolies Needed

seagirt N. J. Aug. 10.—Declaring that the country has reached a critical point in its political and moral development Governor Woodrow Wilson in a speech today accepting the Democratic nomination for president outlined the policies he would pursue in correcting existing evils if he is chosen as the nation's chief executive at the fall elections.

An immediate downward revision of the tariff amendments to the Sherman anti-trust law and more adequate legislation both civil and criminal looking to the control of monopolies legislation to prevent the interlocking of directorates of big corporations that tend to place the finances of the country under the control of a few men legislation that will safeguard the lives and improve the physical and moral conditions of the working people a close inspection of the political life of the people of the Philippines the adaptation of our banking and currency laws to the needs of the country
the conservation of our natural resources
the development of our merchant marine and our waterways presidential primaries and the direct election of United States senators were some of the important recommendations which the governor advocated.

No reference was made to the battle ship program nor the initiative and referendum.

Holds Tariff Responsible

Governor Wilson holds the present high tariff responsible for the high cost of living and the rapid growth of monopolies and denounced the Payne Aldrich tariff act as the most conspicuous example ever afforded the country of the special favors and monopolistic advantages which the leaders of the Republican party have so often shown themselves willing to extend to those to whom they looked for campaign contributions.

Mr. Wilson declared himself in favor of an immediate revision and said it should be downward unhesitatingly and steadily downward
in order not to disturb the business interests of the country however he advised proceeding with caution and prudence like men who know what they are about and not like those in love with a theory.

The governor declared that the trusts instead of belonging to a period of infant industries were the product of a very sophisticated age
when men knew what they wanted and knew how to get it by the favor of the government. It is another chapter he said in the natural history of power and governing classes.

Change for the Better

The next chapter will set us free again. It will be a chapter of readjustment not of pain and rough disturbance.

The present anti-trust law Mr.
Wilson said had apparently proved ineffectual and while he did not hold anyone responsible declared that it will be necessary to supplement the present law with such laws
both civil and criminal as will effectually punish and prevent infamous monopolies adding under other laws as may be necessary to provide suitable and adequate judicial processes whether civil or criminal to disclose them and follow them to their end and punish.

A problem however that the candidate considers greater than the trusts is what he termed the vast confederacies of banks railroads express companies insurance companies manufacturing corporations mining corporations power and development companies bound together by the fact that the ownership of their stock and the members of their boards of directors are controlled and determined by comparatively small and closely interrelated groups of persons who by their informal confederacy may control if they please and when they will both credit and enterprise.

Hints at a Money Trust

Mr. Wilson hinted at the existence of a money trust and while he admitted such a thing might not exist
he advocated legislation to prevent it.

The governor's speech was entirely free from personalities but toward the end he made a veiled thrust at Colonel Roosevelt and the present conditions in the Republican party
when he said:

cause we represent and in order to be important must really represent a cause.

not like those in love with a theory
It is obvious that the changes we make should be made only at such a rate and in such a way as will least interfere with the normal and healthful course of commerce and manufacture. But we shall not on that account act with timidity as if we did not know our own minds for we are certain of our ground and of our object. There should be an immediate revision and it should be downward, unhesitatingly and steadily downward.

It should begin with the schedules which have been most obviously used to kill competition and to raise prices in the United States arbitrarily and without regard to the prices prevailing elsewhere in the markets of the world and it should be extended to every item in every schedule which affords any opportunity for monopoly.

For special advantage to limited groups of beneficiaries or for subsidizing control of any kind in the markets or the enterprises of the country until special favors of every sort shall have been absolutely withdrawn and every part of our laws of taxation shall have been transformed from a system of governmental patronage into a system of just and reasonable charges which shall fall where they will create the least burden.

Tariff Demoralizes Politics

There has been no more demoralizing influence in our politics in our time than the influence of tariff legislation. The influence of the tariff
the government was the grand dispenser of favors and the maker and maker of fortunes and of opportunities such as certain men have sought in order to control the movement of trade and industry throughout the continent. It has made the government a prize to be captured and parties the means of effecting the capture.

It has made the business men of one of the most vital and enterprising nations in the world timid and fretful of alarms and robbed them of self-confidence and manly force until they have cried out that they could do nothing without the assistance of the government at Washington. It has made them feel that their lives depend upon the ways and means committee of the house and the finance committee of the senate (in these later years particularly the finance committee of the senate). They have insisted anxiously that these committees should be made up only of their friends until the country in its turn grew suspicious and wondered how those committees were being guided and controlled by what influences and plans of personal advantage. Government cannot be wholesomely conducted in such an atmosphere. Its very honesty is in jeopardy.

What has the result been?

Prosperity? Yes if by prosperity you mean vast wealth no matter how distributed or whether distributed at all or not if you mean vast enterprises built up to be presently concentrated under the control of comparatively small bodies of men who can determine almost at pleasure whether there shall be competition or not. The nation
as a nation has grown immensely rich.
But what of the other side of the picture? It is not as easy for us to live as it used to be. Our money will not buy as much. High wages even when we can get them, yield us no great comfort.

Tariff Causes High Prices

Moreover we begin to perceive some things about the movement of prices that concern us very deeply and fix attention upon the tariff schedules with a more definite determination than ever to get to the bottom of this matter. We have been looking into it at times under the Sherman act and in investigations in the committee rooms of congress where men who wanted to know the real facts have been busy with inquiry and we begin to see very clearly what at least some of the methods are by which prices are fixed. We know that they are not fixed by the competition of the market or by the natural law of supply and demand and which is to be found stated in the principles of economics but by private arrangements with regard to what the supply should be and agreements among the producers themselves.
Those who have not even represented by counsel. The high cost of living is arranged by private understanding.

We naturally ask ourselves How did

these gentlemen get control of these things? Who handed our economic laws over to the tariff for legislative and contractual alteration? We have in these disclosures still another view of the tariff still another proof that not the people of the United States but only a very small number of them have been partners in that legislation.

The trusts do not belong to the period of infant industries. They are not the products of the time that old laborious times when the great continent was underdeveloped and the young nation struggling to find itself and set upon its feet amidst older and more experienced competitors. They belong to a very recent and very sophisticated age when men knew what they wanted and knew how to get it by the favor of the government. It is another chapter in the natural history of power and of governing classes. The next chapter will set us free again.

I am not one of those who think that competition can be established by law against the drift of a world wide economic tendency neither am I one of those who believe that business done on a great scale by a single organization—call it corporation or what you will—is necessarily dangerous to the liberties even the economic liberty of a great people like our own. I am not afraid of dominant energy. I am not afraid of anything that is normal. I dare say we shall never return to the old order of individual competition and that the organization of business upon a great scale of cooperation is up to a certain point itself normal and inevitable.

Power in the hands of great business men does not make me apprehensive unless it springs out of advantages which they have not created for themselves. Big business is not dangerous because it is big but because its business is an unwholesome inflation created by privileges and exemptions which it ought not to enjoy.

The general terms of the present federal anti-trust law forbidding "combinations in restraint of trade"
have apparently proved ineffectual.
Trusts have grown up under its ban
very luxuriantly and have pursued the methods by which so many of them have established virtual monopolies without serious let or hindrance.

It has roared against them like an unleashed dog. I am not assessing the responsibility. I am merely stating the fact. But the means and methods by which trusts have established monopolies have now become known. It will be necessary to supplement the present law with such laws both civil and criminal, as will effectually punish and prevent those methods adding such other laws as may be necessary to provide suitable and adequate judicial processes whether civil or criminal to disclose them and follow them to their end and punish.

But the problem and the difficulty

are much greater than that. There are not merely great trusts and combinations which are to be controlled and deprived of their power to create monopolies and destroy rivals. There is something bigger still than they are and more subtle more elusive, more difficult to deal with. There are vast confederacies (as I may perhaps call them for the sake of convenience) of banks railroads express companies insurance companies manufacturing corporations mining corporations power and development companies

GOOD HARVESTS ARE PROMISED

Wheat and Oats Crops Will Be Enormous.

Better Tone Is Seen in Stock Market.

Politics, from Now On, Will Become a Less Disturbing Factor—Tariff Question Will Be Handled—Cautiously Because of Its Ultimate Relation to Business—Outlook for More Active Market.

[BY HENRY CLEWS.]

New York, Aug. 5.—The United States seems to have taken in mother nature as a special partner, and once more the country promises to be favored with good harvests. If present calculations are realized, we shall garner a 700,000,000 bushel wheat crop, a 2,900,000,000 bushel corn crop and a 1,200,000,000 bushel oats crop. The yield of potatoes and hay is also likely to be considerably ahead of last year. The total value of these five crops is estimated at $3,600,000,000, or about $200,000,000 ahead of last year. In all probability the aggregate of all agricultural wealth produced this year will be about $9,000,000,000, as against $8,500,000,000, the figures of the department of agriculture last year. What this annual production of new wealth means in this country may be estimated when it is remembered that the capital stock of all the railroads in the United States is placed at $8,470,000,000. An increase of $500,000,000 in agricultural products in a single year cannot but be a powerful stimulus to business.

Increased Confidence.
Bankers in all portions of the West have agreed that the crop situation is in more promising condition than for several years past and that the business men of the interior have decided to eliminate politics from their calculations. This is a practical expression of increased confidence, based upon positively improved intrinsic conditions. The cotton crop seems likely to fall below early expectations, but the yield will, nevertheless, be large, and planters are securing prices which afford good profits. The South enjoyed exceptional prosperity last year and is not likely to fall behind seriously during the next twelve months. August is usually a month of deterioration, so a moderate falling off in condition need cause no surprise in the final reports.

The stock market has been strangely backward in reflecting the betterment of conditions in the interior. This must be largely attributed to the absence of genuine leadership.

The Stock Market.
The stock market is literally taking care of itself, and stagnation was increased by the fact that the vacation season is now at its height. Wall street is not governed alone by crops and business, as is the case in the interior. Monetary conditions are an important influence. So, too, are international affairs. The money market reflects increasing business activity. Commercial paper is more plentiful. Time money is hardening and the increased demand for funds is being felt in all directions. According to the latest statement of the national banks throughout the country, loans are more than $300,000,000 in excess of a year ago. Canada has begun to withdraw her balances from this center. Western and southern demands will shortly become more pressing, and there has been some expectation that Europe, owing to strained conditions there, would depend upon New York for relief in settlement of its obligations to South America.

Easier Conditions.
Easier conditions, however, are beginning to prevail in Europe. Germany has been paying a portion of her American loans, indicating partial relief of strain in that quarter, and in both Paris and London cheaper and more abundant money is reported. Among the reasons why New York has been less sanguine that the West is the tremendous output of new securities during the first six months of the year. While the distribution of these has been much more successful than might have been expected, nevertheless the local market is somewhat congested by such excessive offerings of high-grade securities. In time they will doubtless be distributed, but August is not generally considered a good investment month. In July the output of new securities was only about $34,000,000, as against $130,000,000 a year ago. This is an unusually small output, and proves the inability of the market to take any further new issues at this time.

Wall Street Concerned.
Wall street is also somewhat concerned about the future of the railroads, arising from the persistent demands of labor. Should the engineers obtain concessions in the recent arbitration case, it is expected that corresponding demands will follow from other classes of railroad labor. The railroads have already raised wages very liberally during the past two years, and in consequence have suffered severely in net earnings. Further advances could be endured, possibly by a few of the more prosperous companies. For the weak railroads, however, or those not enjoying an abundance of traffic, any further advance in wages would be a serious matter; the theory of uniform wages in spite of varying conditions on different systems often working injuriously and unjustly to those less favorably situated.

Steel Is Active.
In the steel trade business continues active. The last quarterly report of the United States Steel corporation was fairly encouraging. Steel prices are constantly advancing in all directions, and the results of the next quarter should show a much more liberal profit. Other lines of industry have given evidence of prosperity, notably the great electrical concerns. The textile industries have been much embarrassed by labor troubles, and dividends have been temporarily impaired. The outlook, however, is for less disturbance in these quarters, especially as fabrics are finding a good market at better prices.

So far as politics are concerned, it can safely be said that from now on they will be a less and less disturbing factor. The politicians are learning that derangement of business is apt to injure their own political fortunes. The West has turned its back upon politics most emphatically, and the East is not likely to be slow in following this wholesome example.

The Tariff Question.
For this reason, if for no other, it is likely that the tariff question, to which business is most sensitive, will be handled cautiously. Which-ever party succeeds in the next election, no radical changes need be anticipated, although some reductions will inevitably be made in excessive rates, as a concession to public opinion.

As in previous advices, we reiterate that the outlook is for a better and more active market. Delay has been chiefly due to lack of leadership, to uncertainties regarding the crops and to political agitation. The two latter uncertainties are being gradually eliminated. As the vacations draw to a close, absentees will return invigorated and with optimistic views, the results of which can not but have a favorable effect upon the security markets.

Murdered and Robbed.
Steubenville, O., Aug. 5.—James Infino, 40, a light tender in the Cleveland & Pittsburgh yards near Mingo Junction, was shot six times by two Italians and instantly killed. Infino intended to return to his family in Italy next week.

JACOB GUTHRIE MAY BE INSANE

The Chicago "Raffles" Is To Be Examined.

PHYSICIAN BLAMES DETECTIVE STORIES

Prisoner Guarded To Prevent Suicide.

Undoubtedly the Defense for Guthrie, the School Teacher, Will Be Insanity—Police Expert To Find Loot Worth $350,000 Stored Up. Prisoner Presents Queer Combination of Mental Conditions.

Chicago, Aug. 5.—While arrangements were being made today, for an examination, by alienists, of Jacob Foy Guthrie, the Chicago "Raffles," who says he was lured from his profession of teaching by reading detective stories, the police compiled an inventory of the prisoner's loot.

From the looks of the articles already unearthed, it is believed by the police, that over $350,000 worth of art works, jewelry and other articles will be found before the task is finished. Fearing that Guthrie would attempt suicide, Captain Halpin stationed a guard over him and the disposition of his case will depend on the result of the examination today.

There is no doubt that Guthrie's defense will be insanity. It is probable that he may never be brought to trial for robbing Chicago society leaders, but will be adjudged insane and sent to an asylum.

Doctor Leslie Schwab, the Guthrie family physician, declared today that the young "Raffles" is an "educated fool."

Physician's Statement.
"He has been a bookworm ever since his childhood," said the physician, "but it was not overstudy that caused his mental derangement. Aside from his studious nature as a boy, he used to sit by the hour at night and read thrilling detective yarns. It was this form of occupation that fostered that mental condition, which has always been apparent in him."

"Guthrie's action in storing his loot instead of disposing of it, is but one example of his mental condition. I am sure I shall be able to account for his strange method of operation and prove conclusively that he has suffered periods of mental aberration for years."

Bacteriologist by day and forger by night; instructor of chemistry and mathematics four days of the week and burglar the remaining three; bashful and stammering in the presence of women and girls, and daring bullets from policemen and night watchmen; displaying the exquisite taste of a connoisseur one moment and a lust for plunder the next, he presents the most astonishing combination of mental conditions.

FIFTY-SIX YEARS AGO.

Editor Star.—Historical records show up the modern political "progressive" as a political faker, a base imitation of the Simon pure "progressive" of a half century ago. Here is the record:

"The time has come for the people of the United States to declare themselves in favor of free seas, and a progressive free trade throughout the world."—Democrat platform adopted June 6, 1856, in national convention, Cincinnati, Ohio.

Four years later, in 1860, at Charleston and Baltimore, the same progressive Democratic party in national convention assembled, declared:

"We, the Democracy of the union, in convention assembled, hereby declare our affirmation of the resolutions unanimously adopted by the Democratic convention at Cincinnati in the year, 1856, believing that Democratic principles are unchangeable in their nature when applied to the same subject matters."

From the above it appears that the Democratic party was not only a progressive party in 1856, but declared themselves in favor of "progressive free trade" in 1860. Now just think of the "Bull Moose" party of 1912 claiming a place on the official ballot as the only, original progressives.

Matter of Alimony.

In the divorce decree recently granted to Daisy Parish, from John J. Parish, the court stipulated that the couple should come to an agreement on the matter of alimony. They have been unable to do so and the court will have to settle the question. There will be a hearing before Judge Brodrick Saturday. Attorney L. B. McNeal, of Marion, will represent Mr. Parish and the plaintiff's interests will be looked after by Hoopes, Robinson & Hoopes, of Marysville.—Marysville Tribune.

PETERS' SET OF RIBS MADE OF SOLID GOLD

Washington, Aug. 5.—T. W. Peters, declared to be the most remarkable example of surgical skill in the world, is in Washington. Five years ago, Peters fell 350 feet into the St. Lawrence river, in an effort to save a companion. Scarcely a born in his body remained unbroken.

Peters has in the top of his head a gold plate larger than a silver dollar. He has undoubtedly the most valuable set of ribs in the world, for they are all solid gold.

His neck is held up by a stiff, steel brace, and he says doctors are now working on an electric appliance that will greatly assist him in turning his head. His elbows have metal joints, and while he can turn them in certain directions only, he seems to experience but little inconvenience in using them.

Large sections of bones in his legs have been replaced by metal, but he walks as speedily as the average man.

Husband Claims Wife Deserts Him Three Weeks After Marriage. Entries Made in Two Other Divorce Matters—A Foreclosure Proceeding.

The divorce suit of Ernest Eitnier against Grace Eitnier was dismissed by Judge W. E. Scofield, Monday, because the defendant filed a similar action against the plaintiff in southern Ohio before July 16, when the husband brought his suit here through Mouser & Moloney. The Eitniers were married at Traverse, Michigan, April 10, 1910, and have no children. In his petition filed here the husband charged that his wife ran away with another man three weeks after they were married.

In the divorce matter of Nora Lucas against William A. Lucas, the defendant has been given leave to answer by August 31. The same entry has been made in the divorce matter of Jennie Vigor against Charles E. Vigor.

In the foreclosure proceeding of the Fahey Banking company against Charles H. Hofstetter, the sale has been confirmed and a deed ordered.

Alleging three-years wilful absence, Charles M. Herrman, through Attorney L. E. Myers, brought an action for a divorce from Florence G. Herrman, Saturday afternoon. The Herrmans were married in New York City, June 7, 1904. They have no children. According to the plaintiff, his wife deserted him September 15, 1906.

FARMER IS KILLED ON OHIO CENTRAL TRACKS

Mr. and Mrs. William Gibson Struck by a Train.

William Gibson, sixty-eight, a farmer, was instantly killed and his wife fatally injured when their buggy was struck by an Ohio Central train two miles south of Kenton, Saturday afternoon. Their four-year-old grandson escaped with a few scratches.

The wreck of the buggy was carried on the pilot fifty rods and when the engine was stopped Mrs. Gibson was found held fast in the wreckage moaning in agony, but still closely holding her grandson. Her husband was found dead beside the track. His skull was crushed.

Mr. and Mrs. Gibson were driving to their home near Byalla after a shopping trip here.

All-white for mourning is making its way, especially for young people.

MISS MARY G. HAY IS A VISITOR IN THE CITY

Talks to Audiences of Her Work for Woman's Suffrage.

SOME REASONS WHY WOMEN SHOULD VOTE

Now They Can Only Raise Their Voices for What Is Right—They Should Be Able To Vote Their Sentiments and Have Them Enacted Into Laws—Dates for Week.

Miss Mary G. Hay, president of the New York State Federation of Women's clubs, and an ardent advocate of woman's suffrage, is spending a few days in Marion county, speaking in the interest of the suffrage question. Miss Hay arrived here, late Saturday afternoon, from the West, where she attended the general conference of federated clubs held in San Francisco recently, and is stopping at Hotel Marion. From here she will go to Cleveland, and will return to her home in New York City, Saturday.

In an interview granted a Star reporter, Monday, Miss Hay stated that she was more of a club woman than a suffragist worker, but that she devoted much of her spare time to the cause of woman's suffrage. "I think I was born a suffragist," said Miss Hay. "I have always believed in it. While I devote most of my time to club work, yet I am always willing to talk on this great question whenever requested."

Ten Days in Ohio.

"Carrie Taylor Upton, president of the Ohio State Suffrage association, wrote me while I was in the West asking if I would spend ten days in Ohio in the interest of the campaign now in progress in your state. She sent me to Marion for four days, and that is the reason I am here. Why do I believe in woman's suffrage? Because I believe women have as much right to the ballot as the men. They have education, knowledge and the same ability to make laws as the men. The men of this country are prejudiced against anything new being advanced, and it is this prejudice that is keeping back the suffragist cause. They have no argument against it, it is simply prejudice. It is folly for any man to state that only men should have a voice in expressing their desires on any question. Women should have this same voice because they are just as capable. I believe the women of your state will win out in the coming election on the constitutional amendments, September 3, because the only opposition they have is from the liquor movement."

Where Strength Lies.

"The heaviest vote in favor of woman's suffrage will come from the rural districts. The great trouble is that the people in the smaller cities like Marion do not realize the moral conditions that are existing in the larger cities. You do not come so closely in contact with the depravity of women in the smaller towns. If the women here could only see for themselves these terrible conditions of the larger cities, they would be stirred to activity, and although they did not care to vote themselves they would not stand in the way of others who do. The moral conditions will not be bettered until women have the ballot."

Miss Hay spoke about ten minutes at the Wesley M. E. church, Sunday morning, following the preaching services, and in the afternoon before a large crowd at the Memorial M. E. church at Caledonia. In the evening, she was to have spoken ten minutes at the close of the services at the Epworth M. E. church, but Dr. C. R. Havighurst, the pastor, asked her to speak during the entire service, and although she had not expected to speak but a few minutes she finally consented and gave a fine talk. She confined her address to the moral question and the question of the home. It being Sunday, she did not touch on the political side. She spoke of the altruistic side of women's work, and of the good the ballot in the hands of women would do humanity, in the making and enforcing of better laws. Especially laws affecting the home and community, making it cleaner and better for children to live in.

Work of the Women.

"Today, women are working for everything that is good for the uplift of humanity and the protection of the home and the child. She is interested in temperance, peace, and better conditions of women and children in the factories, and in the making and enforcement of pure food laws. In fact she is interested in everything that makes the home better and purer, and makes towns and cities better for rearing humanity. Woman is giving her time and energy and money for the betterment of these conditions, but she lacks one thing needful. That is to be able to crystallize her prayers into laws and bring forth results from her work, and that one thing is the ballot," said the speaker.

Miss Hay also showed the church that while it worked and prayed for all these things, yet on election day only one-third of the members, the men, had the right to the ballot while the other two-thirds which comprised the women, had no voice. She closed her talk with a plea to the men to vote for the suffrage amendment, September 3.

Some Speaking Dates.

Monday, Miss Hay spoke before the City Federation of Women's clubs at the Marion public library assembly room. Monday evening she spoke at Morral; Tuesday morning, at Waldo; Tuesday afternoon, at 2 o'clock, at Prospect; and at 3.30 o'clock at the regular meeting of the Frances Willard W. C. T. U. at the infirmary directors' room in the court-house. Tuesday evening, she addressed a large mass meeting of men and women at the public library assembly room; Wednesday morning she spoke at Meeker, and in the afternoon spoke at Agosta and Green Camp. In the evening, she spoke at LaRue, closing her work in this county.

THE COMPANY LEAVES FOR ITS ANNUAL CAMP

The Boys Left, Monday Morning, in Fine Spirits.

THE REGIMENTAL CAMP NEAR DELAWARE

The Spot Selected for Camp, This Year, Is Ideal—Plenty of Work for the Members of the Company Will Be Found in the Energetic Drill Practice.

Singing "A-Camping We Will Go," forty-six members of D company, Ohio National guard, departed over the Hooking Valley at 7:18 Monday morning for their week's maneuver camp near Delaware. Captain E. O. Richardson, before leaving at the head of his company, caused warrants to be issued for the arrest of two recalcitrant members, Harry C. Slegley and Bartley Bentfield.

With the exception of the two "hooky" privates, every member of the company showed up at the armory early Monday morning to leave for the annual camp.

When Privates Slegley and Bentfield failed to materialize, Captain Richardson was indignant and forthwith proceeded to police headquarters. The manner of the young men's punishment has not yet been determined, but just as soon as they are arrested they will be cast into jail. They may be court-martialed.

The regimental camp is located about half a mile from Delaware on a spot that is declared to be ideal for the various maneuvers and drills. The company will not be compelled to take any long hikes across country, but Captain Richardson expects

CHOLERA INFANTUM THE CAUSE OF DEATH

Mr. and Mrs. Marco Sparaco Lose Little Daughter.

Aniello Sparaco, aged two months and eighteen days, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Marco Sparaco, died of cholera infantum at the family residence on Glad street, Sunday morning about 10 o'clock, after an illness of a little over a week.

The funeral services were held at the home of the parents, Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock, followed by interment in St. Mary's cemetery.

Rather than see his wife disqualified from inheriting $50,000, Dr. Robert P. Prewitt, of St. Louis, has assumed her maiden name, Gregg. The change was sanctioned by the courts. Daniel Gregg, who died in 1885, specified in his will that his daughter after her marriage must continue to bear the name of Gregg. Mrs. Gregg's former husband retained his own name, but permitted her to comply with the mandates of the will.

Mrs. Jennie Denney, fifty years old, a Grand Rapids club and society woman, was a member of the graduating class of the Central high school, of that city. Mrs. Denney's return to school days was not the result of an eccentric impulse, but part of a plan for serious educational work. She intends to enter the University of Chicago next fall.

TITLE CAN NOT BE DISPUTED

America Has Right To Regulate Canal Traffic.

BRITISH-AMERICAN TREATY EXPLAINED

Senator Jones Makes Strong Speech in Senate.

Gentleman from Washington City, the Responsibilities and Duties of United States in Connection with Canal—Speech Called Forth by England's Protest Against Free Passage for American Ships.

Washington, Aug. 6.—Senator Jones, of Washington, made a strong speech in the senate today on the responsibilities and duties of the United States in connection with the Panama canal. The speech was called forth by Great Britain's protest against the bill allowing American ships free passage through the canal. Senator Jones argued that the right of the United States to govern and control the canal, chided other members of the senate for expressing a contrary view, and said if he felt some of his colleagues do he would never admit on the floor of the senate in public, but only would give utterance to such beliefs during executive session within the secret walls of the chamber.

Interpretation of Treaty.

Senator Jones' interpretation of the early British-American treaty is that the United States and Great Britain, neither knowing who was to construct the canal, simply bound themselves to protect the builders of the canal from unjust confiscation. Jones referred to the Clayton-Bulwer pact and the Hay-Pauncefote treaty and said:

"It is plain to me," referring to prohibition against blockade, and the prohibition of war rights, "that this rule refers to nations other than the United States."

"When the United States says the canal shall be free and open to all vessels of commerce and war observing the rules it is the same as a ferryman saying all persons paying twenty-five cents would be transported across his stream. There is nothing that makes it a discrimination against any of these nations to allow American ships to go through the canal on different terms any more than it would be if the ferryman took himself across his own ferry free of charge."

Title Is Undisputed.
"No one disputes on title and no one can dispute it. Over it flies the flag of the republic representing the sovereignty and proprietorship of the nation, just as it represents that sovereignty and proprietorship over any other territory belonging to the United States."

"Through and across the strip of territory, and wholly within its limits, we are building with our people's money and will soon have completed a great canal through which will pass much of the world's commerce. This canal will be built by us and by our money. It will be operated by us. We will protect it. It is ours. Our nation owns it. It will be built through our territory. Can we say how we shall use it?"

"This is the question which meets us at the threshold in this bill. I have no doubt as to what the American people think about it. There is no doubt about their answer to the question. It has never entered their minds that this government could not use its own property and deal with its own people as it saw fit without asking the consent of any other government or people."

PLANNING TO BRING SHOWS TO THE CITY

West End Merchants Looking to a Carnival Soon.

The business men of the West End held a meeting, Monday evening, at the Schoenberger & Lennon store on west Center street, to decide as to holding a carnival here. A representative of the Krause greater shows was present and made a proposition to the merchants. It was decided to try to bring the shows here. They have many recommendations from mayors of towns, and business men over the country. The shows will bring a high diver, who dives from a height of seventy-five feet, and a balloonist, who will make an ascension every afternoon.

COUNTY AUDITOR IS THREATENED WITH SUIT

Says He Knows Nothing of Claim Held in Dayton.

County Auditor Jay Spaulding is threatened with a damage suit if he does not immediately pay a bill of $50. The auditor is wondering why he is going to be sued.

In his mail Wednesday, he opened a letter addressed to the county auditor. It informed him that unless he called at a certain attorney's office in Dayton at once and settled a bill against him for $50 he would be forthwith sued. "I don't know anything about this claim, but I presume it must be for stationery of some kind bought in the office at one time or other," he said. "I know nothing about it and shall ignore this letter. Let him present his claim in the proper form."

WILL IS SIGNED BY A DEAD HAND

Denver, Aug. 6.—That G. A. Westerdaal was dead when he signed his will is admitted by his widow, who Monday filed the document for probate. Supported by Mrs. Westerdaal, her husband wrote an eight-word will, giving to her his entire estate. He had completed the signature, all but the crossing of the "L" when he sank back in her arms dead. But a moment after life had departed a muscular contraction caused the hand holding the pen to draw it in an irregular, wavering line across the stem of the letter, crossing it and completing the signature. Not until this was done was the will completed. It is said that no contest will be made.

VIRGINIA TOWN IS FIRE SWEEPED

The Entire Business Section of Culpepper

IS WIPED OUT BY FURY OF FLAMES

Communication with Town Is Destroyed.

Last Message Comes by Way of a Neighboring Town and Is Received from Operator, Who Says That He Is Being Driven from His Key by Flames—Fire Still Burning, but Under Control.

Richmond, Va., Aug. 6.—A disastrous fire broke out late last night in Culpepper, a town of 3,000 inhabitants, and at latest reports was still burning, although under control.

All wire commercial communication was broken off at 3 o'clock, the last message saying that a large area had been destroyed at that hour, and that the entire town was threatened with destruction.

A telephone message from a neighboring town at 9 a. m., said that all wires were down to Culpepper, and that the latest report from there stated that the fire was sweeping through the entire business section of the town.

The latest message from Culpepper came from a railroad operator, who said the fire was driving him from his key. He stated that the flames were then under control, but that practically the entire business district had been wiped out.

NEW MOTION-PICTURE THEATER IS PLANNED

W. D. Clark Has Option on Site for New Theater.

BUILDING MAY BE FINISHED BY FALL

The Structure Will Be Equipped for Vaudeville and Motion-Picture Shows and Will Be Big Enough to Accommodate Several Hundred Patrons—An Outline of Plans.

A combination vaudeville and motion picture theater is to be built by W. D. Clark, proprietor of the Columbia motion-picture theater on east Center street. Mr. Clark's new house is to be located on Main street, near Center street. He has obtained an option on a certain property and expects to erect the proposed building by fall, unless present plans miscarry.

It was rumored about town, Monday afternoon, that Mr. Clark expected to build a handsome new theater to take the place of the grand opera-house destroyed by fire some time ago. When asked about the rumor, Mr. Clark declared that he had no intention of building an opera-house, but said that he had secured an option on the Main street property, which he declined to designate more definitely. He said he expected to build a vaudeville and motion-picture house big enough to accommodate several hundred more people than his present theater. He will continue to conduct the Columbia as it is now conducted.

Mr. Clark declares his new theater will have nothing but high-grade vaudeville. He will charge ten and twenty cents admission.

121st Ohio Volunteers.

The thirty-fifth annual reunion of the 121st Ohio Volunteer infantry, which was recruited in Marion Union, Delaware and Knox counties, will be held at Sunbury, Delaware county, August 15.

THE COURT RENDERS DECISION IN OLD CASE

Clinton Foundry and Machine Company Entitled to Money.

MUST PAY THE COSTS AND SOME CLAIMS

Suit Grows Out of the Alleged Graft in the Building of the Municipal Garbage and Sewage Disposal Plant—Other Notes from Common Pleas Court.

That the Clinton Foundry & Machine company is entitled to $27,799, with interest from March 4, 1907, subject to the payment of such costs as may be ordered and the claims of the creditors having a lien against it, is the decision of Judge Daniel Babst, of Crestline, in the long-contested suit of the Marion National bank against the City of Marion, the Clinton Foundry & Machine company, of Pennsylvania, the Clinton Foundry & Machine company, of New York, and former Councilman Oliver Heldman.

This is the suit growing out of the alleged graft in the building of the municipal garbage and sewage disposal plant, and was begun March 23, 1906. The Marion National bank in its petition-to-interpleader set up that, in a certain case known as No. 11287, wherein one Herman Blach was plaintiff and the foundry companies were defendants, it was served with a notice in garnishee, and answered that it had the sum of $3,633.35 in its hands belonging to the foundry company. Since then the bank has paid out on the order of the defendants therein all of the above sum save $2,700.

Blach sued the Clinton Foundry companies to recover $2,600 as commission in using his influence in obtaining the municipal contract for the New York and Pennsylvania corporations.

Later, an order was made directing the Marion National bank to pay the money in its possession to the city. It was at the same time notified by the foundry companies not to pay it. A multiplicity of law suits being threatened, the bank went into court and asked that an order be made with regard to the custody of the money. Eventually, the court directed that the money be turned over to the custody of the clerk.

A hearing to determine upon the distribution of the money was set for next Wednesday morning at 9 o'clock, but has been indefinitely continued until Attorney Fred E. Guthrie, who is out of town, returns.

At the hearing the Marion National bank is ordered to show cause why it should not be charged with interest on the money in its possession from March 4, 1907.

The claim of the former firm of Seofield, Durfee & Seofield for a fee out of the fund as attorneys for the intervening petitioners in bringing the fund into court, will be allowed at the time of the hearing, according to the journal entry received from Judge D. Babst.

The city of Marion failed to set up a sufficient claim against the money on deposit, and its answer and cross petition is dismissed.

In a journal entry received by County Clerk W. W. Klinefelter from Judge Daniel Babst, of Crestline, on Tuesday, Special Master Commissioner J. H. Eymon, of this city, is directed to take testimony in writing with reference to a motion to join the issues between the John A. Roebliks Sons' company and the other parties in the suit of the Troy Trust company against the Columbus, Marion & Bucyrus Railroad company and others.

Commissioner Eymon is also ordered to make his report to the court, with his findings of fact and conclusions of law.

John A. Roebliks Sons' company, in its answer and cross petition filed in the interurban railway action August 3, set up a claim against the C. M. & B. of $5,818.19 for trolley wire, etc., sold to John G. Webb, former president of the road. Instead, however, the wire and other equipment was delivered over the Pennsylvania to the Webb Construction company, but was used in the construction of the C. M. & B.

SIX BLOCKS OF PIKE BONDS ARE SOLD TODAY

New First National Bank of Columbus Gets the Issue.

Six blocks of five per cent pike bonds totaling $64,700 were awarded to the New First National bank, of Columbus, at its premium bid of one dollar on each issue Monday afternoon, in the office of Attorney John H. Clark. The Columbus bank was the only bidder. The bonds have an average life of four and one-half years. The various free-turnpike bonds sold were:

Bethlehem, $17,000; Hipsher, $10,400; Embusher, $11,400; Douce, $10,500; Miles, $6,500; Rubins, $8,900. The last named is a joint-county pike being built by Marion and Hardin counties.

When the late Edwin Hawley, the railroad promoter, died his estate was estimated at some $60,000. After paying the debts and appraising the estate's assets the sum left is $23,287.93. Hawley was never half so rich as the public believed.

MUCH INTEREST IN PLACING OF MONEY

Two Kinds of Depositories for the County Funds.

BIDS TO BE RECEIVED FOR THE MONEY SOON

The County Commissioners Are Re-advertising for Bids To Be Opened August 19—Much of the Money Will Be Placed in the Inactive Depositories.

Since the county commissioners have re-advertised for bids on active and inactive funds, the various bankers of the county are manifesting a lively interest, and the probabilities are that the bidding will be just as lively, according to the commissioners.

Because of the new depository law going into effect, creating what is known as inactive and active depositories, considerable interest among taxpayers has been aroused in the custody of the people's money. Since the commissioners found it necessary to re-advertise for bids because they did not specify the inactive and active depositories, bankers are making inquiries about the law.

Today, John E. Waddell, president of the Marion National bank, called at the commissioners' office to learn definitely when depository contracts would be awarded. He was informed that bids on both the inactive and active deposits will be received up until 12 o'clock noon, Monday, August 19.

Heretofore, as a rule, the bankers of the county have all bid two per cent. Under the new law the county must receive not less than two per cent. interest for its inactive deposits, and not less than one per cent. for its active deposits. Inactive deposits are not subject to check, while active deposits can be withdrawn at any time. Only banks located in the county seat may bid on the active deposits, which must remain in the local banks. Under the old law, any bank in the county could bid on the county's money when the law did not specify active and inactive money.

Presumably the active money must remain here in order that it may be procured by the county in the event it needs it without delay. County Treasurer R. S. Dombaur will place the bulk of the county's money in inactive depositories.

CHARLES M. POWERS HAS HIS JAW BROKEN

Is Struck with Bottle by William "Peg" Massie.

MASSIE TAKES RIG FROM HITCHING PLACE

Owner Follows Fellow and Gives Massie a Whipping—Stoops Over To Pick Up a Bicycle When He Is Hit—Powers States He Will Not Prosecute the Mischance.

Charles M. Powers, the lively man, is suffering as a result of his lower jaw being fractured at the chin, the fracture being caused by his being struck on the jaw by William "Peg" Massie, Saturday evening. Powers hired out a rig, late Saturday afternoon, and a short time later received a call at the barn that a fellow had been seen to untie the horse from where it had been hitched on north Main street, and drive away.

Powers learned the name of the fellow who took the horse from the man who had hired the rig. Mounting a bicycle, Powers started for the West End, in which direction the fellow was seen going. Learning that Massie lived on Silver street, Powers visited that vicinity and was just passing Hurst street when Massie was seen approaching.

Powers waited for him, and when he reached Silver street he took charge of the rig. Massie became abusive and a fight followed in which Powers gave Massie a severe whipping. After the fight was at an end, Powers stooped to pick up his bicycle, and as he straightened up, Massie struck him with a bottle. After giving Massie another good whipping, Powers took the horse and rig to his barn at the rear of No. 132 north Main street.

Powers then called on Dr. James W. McMurray to secure the necessary attention. There was a complete fracture at the center of the chin and he had to be taken to the dental office of Dr. A. F. Linnacott where it was necessary to wire around the teeth to hold the jaw in place temporarily, and a gutta-percha plate was later made. Powers has been able to be down town and his injury is almost unnoticeable. Powers does not care to file an affidavit against Massie, believing he gave the latter sufficient punishment.

MARION PEOPLE HOME FROM CAMP MEETING

Week at Stoutsville Proves Pleasant in Every Way.

EVANGELISTS HILL AND BERRY PRESENT

They Deliver a Number of Stirring Sermons—The Evangelists Are To Conduct the Camp Meeting Next Year—A Big Storm Hits the Camp, but No One Is Injured.

Rev. J. W. Heininger, of this city, presiding elder of the Columbus district, and president of the Columbus District Camp-Meeting association of the Evangelical church, Tuesday returned home from Stoutsville, Fairfield county, where the ten days' annual camp-meeting was held. Other Marionites attending were Rev. E. L. Weatherwax and family, Rev. John Hobson, Arthur W. Hinds and family, George J. Orians and family, Mr. and Mrs. John Zachman and Mrs. J. W. Heininger.

The camp-meeting was opened a week ago last Thursday, and closed Sunday. The day before the meeting opened a tornado struck the region, blowing down a number of big trees near the big auditorium. Although many had already arrived at the camp for the meetings, no one was hurt.

Evangelists Dave Hill, of Lancaster, and Jack Berry, of Chicago, were present throughout the camp-meetings and delivered a number of stirring sermons. It was decided to have Evangelists Hill and Berry conduct the services next year.

One of the attendants at the meetings was a Mr. Wise, residing near Stoutsville, who has been attending the annual meetings there for seventy-four years. He was introduced to practically all of the campers, who made much over him. The old man, who is now past ninety years of age, appeared to enjoy it hugely.

LITTLE JENNIE LEWIS GIVEN A GREAT FRIGHT

Child's Right Leg Is Caught in Postoffice Doors.

YOUNGSTERS' PLAY ENDS IN TROUBLE

Girl and Two Brothers Sent to Postoffice To Mail Letter and Play with Revolving Door—Girl Rescued from Position with Great Deal of Difficulty.

While playing in the vestibule of the revolving doorway at the Church street entrance of the postoffice, Tuesday evening, shortly after 7 o'clock, the eight-year-old Jennie Lewis, of Mobile, Alabama, who is visiting at the home of her grandfather, Ashbury Butz, of north Prospect street, caught her right leg between the swinging leaves of the door. For more than half an hour she was held a screaming prisoner, while Postmaster M. B. Dickerson and Assistant Postmaster Horace S. Williams sought in various ways to free her from her painful position.

A large crowd, attracted by the child's cries of fright and pain, quickly gathered and watched curiously the efforts made to release her. When the little girl's leg was finally pulled from between the revolving and stationary door leaves through the aid of a crowbar, she was well nigh exhausted. She was able to walk to her grandfather's home a short time afterward, however.

The Lewis girl and her two brothers, Marion and George, aged seven and nine, had gone to the postoffice to mail a letter. When they entered the postoffice lobby they began playing with the revolving doors so many children are in the habit of doing. The boys started to whirl the door leaves around and their little sister's leg became securely wedged in between one of the stationary leaves and one of the swinging leaves.

Release Is Difficult.
The harder that Postmaster Dickerson and others tried to free her the tighter the wedge appeared to get, the girl screaming and begging to be released meanwhile. At first it was thought she could be freed by unscrewing the door leaves, but this proved unavailing and a crowbar was obtained. By prying the swinging door leaf back from the stationary one, while the little girl uttered cries of pain, the men managed to extricate her. The girl's leg was caught just above the ankle. She was more frightened than hurt, and the boys were frightened as much as their sister.

Postmaster Dickerson believes that the Lewis child's experience in playing with the revolving doors at the postoffice ought to be an object lesson to other children.

Many new styles in "middy" dresses are being shown for little girls.

THE MARION GUN CLUB PREPARES FOR A SHOOT

A Meeting Is Held by the Members Tuesday Evening.

MUCH INTEREST IN THE COMING MEETING

Some of the Best Trap Shooters in the State Will Take Part in the Contests at the Club's Grounds, August 28—An Effort to Arouse Interest of General Public.

At a meeting of the Marion Gun club, held in the rooms over Feidner & Huggins' cafe, on south Main street, Tuesday evening, arrangements were completed for the merchandise shoot to be held at the club's grounds, August 28. The shoot will start at 9 o'clock in the morning and last through the entire day. Three prizes will be offered for each event and some of the best trap shooters in the state will be in attendance.

A committee composed of Albert E. Mautz, Joseph H. Mason, Harry Boyd and Harry May was appointed to solicit the merchants for prizes for the shoot. The merchants contributing to the success of the shoot will be given considerable free advertising in various ways, and their assistance will be greatly appreciated by the members of the club. The club has gone into debt to some extent as a result of building a clubhouse, enclosing the pulls, constructing new trap houses and making other improvements at the grounds. Incidental to the program of events for merchandise prizes, there will be a twenty-bird race for a money prize.

An effort is being made to interest the general public in the sport of trap shooting, whether they be shooters or not. All are invited to attend the shoot and witness the work of the marksmen. No admission will be charged and there are good accommodations for spectators, while lunch is served at the grounds throughout the entire day.

HIS BLAZING CLOTHING THREATENS HIS LIFE

Clifford Hofstetter Is Very Burned.

GASOLINE DRIPPINGS IGNITED BY A LIGHT

An Automobile Accident Shortly North of the City—Hofstetter and Frank Miller Are the Victims—Men Brought to City Another Auto.

The presence of mind and precaution of Clifford "Dick" Hofstetter together with the quick action of Frank Miller, undoubtedly saved them from burning to death three miles north of the city, at 9.30 o'clock Monday night.

Young men were out automobile in a Buick car when some went wrong with the generator. They worked with the machine a short time, and finding the fault was in the carburetor, Hofstetter crawled under the car to the necessary repairs. The gas was leaking at the time, and to the dirt he put on an old linen ter. While under the car the oiline dropped on him and saturated the right side of the upper part of his clothing. Hofstetter came from under the car and went wrench. While standing near rear light of the automobile, his saturated clothing was ignited.

Hofstetter made an effort to out the blaze with his left hand, but was unsuccessful. He then threw a coat over his head. At the same time Miller ran to his assistance, threw another coat over the burning garment. Hofstetter then fell into a ditch and rolled in the while his companion held a coat over his head and the upper part of his body. After several minutes the blaze was smothered out.

Unable to repair the car to continue the trip home, assistants summoned and Roy Able drove with Dr. J. A. McMurray's aid brought the men to this city. Hofstetter was suffering intensely the burns he received, the sleeves of the two coats and his being burned entirely off. He taken to his home on Lincoln where Dr. W. J. Welser was given and surgical attention was given. His right hand and arm to the elbows are terribly burned, while his legs, and he inhaled some fumes, causing slight internal injury. Miller's hands were slightly injured in his efforts to extinguish the blaze.

Hofstetter was able to be at Tuesday, but there is some doubt that he may have to submit to removal of a part of his right hand to prevent blood-poisoning.

MORTGAGES FILED AND CANCELLED IN A YEAR

County Recorder Finishes Report of Transactions.

SOME COMPARISONS WITH FORMER YEARS

An Increase in Number of Mortgages and a Decrease in the Number of Cancellations—A Reason Found in the Increase of the Number of Deeds Recorded.

County Recorder E. F. Little has completed his report of the mortgages filed and cancelled, and deeds executed during the fiscal year ending June 30, 1912, to be filed with the secretary of state. The report for this year shows an increase in the number of mortgages filed, and a decrease in the number of cancellations in comparison with the corresponding month of last year. This, however, might be attributed to the fact that there were more deeds executed during the past year and the total consideration exceeded that of last year by $356,000.25.

The report shows that 14,658 acres of agricultural land were transferred during the past year, for a consideration of $1,287,566.12, as against 11,720 acres for $1,084,443.08 for last year. The average price an acre last year was $87.72 as against $92.53 for the previous year. The report also shows an increase in the number of transfers of lands within the corporation valued by the acre. For town lots 4,266 deeds were recorded during the past year with a consideration of $1,428,803.12, as against 1,082 deeds with a consideration of $1,210,710.93 for last year.

During the past year, 215 mortgages were recorded on agricultural lands 17,270 acres being involved for a consideration of $626,246.85, while the year previous there were 168 recorded, involving 12,425 acres at a consideration of $498,147.68. On lots and lands within the corporation 1,086 mortgages were recorded, the consideration being $924,065.10, while but 1,054 were recorded the previous year, the consideration being $856,274.06.

During the last year, 177 mortgages were cancelled involving 11,105 acres of agricultural land with a consideration of $344,120.75, as against 191 cancellations involving 14,104 acres, and a consideration of $412,247.48 for the year previous.

On lands in the corporation limits, there were four cancellations involving one and a half acres at a consideration of $2,710 while the previous year there were twelve recorded involving thirty-six and one-half acres with a consideration of $15,800.01. In city lots there were 658 cancellations recorded with a consideration of $576,615.40, against 896 cancellations with a consideration of $620,997.01 for the previous year.

HARRY GRIM'S TENT RECOVERED SATURDAY

Found Hidden in a Barn at the Fairground.

BOYS COULD NOT PUT TENT IN ITS POSITION

Work of Men Required To Place It in Place Where Found—Boys Charged with Tearing Down the Tent Are Before Probate Judge, Must Appear Again.

The tent belonging to Harry Grim, which was stolen from the Chautauqua grounds, was located in a loft of one of the barns in the north end of the fairground, Saturday, by the seven boys who were arrested for tearing it down, and who acknowledge their guilt to Judge W. S. Spencer, Friday.

Addison Bain, who was in charge of the Chautauqua grounds and to whom the loss was reported, suggested to Judge Spencer Saturday, that the lads be released long enough to hunt through and under the buildings in an endeavor to locate the stolen property. While hunting through one of the barns the boys found the tent, wrapped up very carefully, in a loft over the feed boxes. The tent was full of water and very heavy. Mr. Bain states, that it could not possibly have been placed in the loft by boys. He states that it took the work of men to carry the tent up a ladder and place it in the hiding place. The poles could not be found.

The boys appeared before Judge Spencer, Saturday, and admitted tearing the tent down, but denied any knowledge of its whereabouts. Judge Spencer excused the boys and told them to hunt for the tent and report to him later.

COMMISSIONS ARE FORWARDED SATURDAY

The Democratic Member of Board Is Appointed Without Much of a Contest, but There Are Two Aspirants for the Appointment on the Republican Side.

Charles M. Tobin, Republican and George J. Orians, Democrat, were named Saturday, as new members of the Marion county board of election by Secretary of State Graves, who forwarded their commissions Saturday.

The appointments were made on the recommendations of the Republican and Democratic central committees. In the case of Orians on the Democratic side there was no contest, but on the Republican side quite a spirited contest has been in progress. Dr. C. J. FORMER MARIONITE COMBINES STORES

S. S. Fox Purchases Three Furniture Stores in Marysville.

S. S. Fox, lately of Marion, who purchased E. G. Lott's furniture store in this city, is evidently of the opinion that Marysville has had a super abundance of furniture stores. In addition to the Lott store, Mr. Fox last week purchased the furniture stock of the Emmert-Conrad company, and this week he closed a deal for the purchase of J. W. Perkins' stock of furniture. All are being combined with the Lott store, which will make one of the largest and best furniture stores in Central Ohio.

Mr. Perkins will retain his present location, in north Main street, and his entire attention will be devoted to the undertaking business, for which he is well equipped. Mr. Perkins will fit up a commodious reception room and show room for this business and in the rear will maintain a workshop, where furniture repairs, picture framing, etc., can be obtained at satisfactory prices.—Marysville Tribune.
